

TO FORM A BIG TRUST.

Trying to Unite the Warship Building Interests.

WILL HAVE $200,000,000 CAPITAL.

Men of International Reputation in the Project—To Locate the Factories—Will Also Manufacture Armor Plate and Probably Make Guns.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 4.—One of the most gigantic projects for the combination of capital in the history of the country is being engineered in Cleveland. It is an attempt to unite the warship building interests and the armor plate and gunmaking interests of the world into one great syndicate, whose factories shall be located near Cleveland.

Men of international reputation in the financial and manufacturing world are in the deal. All summer foreigners of wealth and rank have been quietly visiting Cleveland. Their going and coming has been kept as mysterious as possible. When the Spanish-American war ended, all the world had learned that American had the best warships, armor plate and guns.

The attention of moneyed men had been called to the possibilities of immense profits, which might accrue to a company which should have a monopoly of these materials and from which every government in the world would be obliged to buy. Then the big financiers and manufacturers got their heads together. One Cleveland who is in the deal is said to be Colonel Myron T. Herrick, president of the Society for Savings. Another is Robert Wallace, president of the Cleveland Ship Building Company.

Dr. Gatling, the famous inventor of guns, has been here in conference with other men in the deal. Armstrong, the inventor of the gun, which bears his name, has also been in Cleveland. Andrew Carnegie is one of the chief men in the negotiations.

Robert Wallace is now in the west with several of the foreigners, who visited Cleveland. Before he returns he will stop in San Francisco, and the proprietors of the Union iron works, which built the famous battleship Oregon, will be approached as to whether they will go into the deal.

It is believed that every shipbuilding, gunmaking and armor plate making firm in the United States has been in the negotiations. The projectors claim they can raise a capital of $200,000,000.

A WARRANT FOR HIS ARREST.

Haldeman Charged With Murder of Ex-Senator Richardson.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 4.—Coroner Haerr swore out a warrant for the arrest of W. T. Haldeman on the charge of murdering ex-State Senator J. C. Richardson. The authorities in Chicago were telegraphed to arrest Haldeman, but up to midnight no word was received of Haldeman, who was seen in Chicago yesterday. Meantime the inquest proceeds with Harry Probasco, a brother-in-law of Haldeman, and a relative of ex-Senator and Secretary John Sherman, representing the defense. After the funeral today the son of Richardson and other members of the family will appear as witnesses.

Richardson and Haldeman were not only brothers-in-law, but closely associated in business, partners in real estate and other matters as well as in the Lockland paper mill.

Ohio Strikers Win a Victory.

BELLAIRE, Oct. 4.—The miners' strike at Dillonvale and Long Run has been settled, part of the men returned to work yesterday and others will go in today. Over 1,000 men were out. The settlement is a victory for the miners, as all points but one were gained by them. The eight-hour day, it is alleged, had been ignored by the operators.

Caused by Disappointment.

YOUNGSTOWN, Oct. 4.—General James L. Botsford is seriously ill at his home on Wick avenue and is not expected to recover. It is said that his health has given away under disappointment on account of being named inspector of volunteers when he had been led to build his hopes for something much better.

Died After Much Suffering.

TOLEDO, Oct. 4.—Superintendent W. J. Parks of the Union elevator died at the hospital yesterday after suffering for three weeks with awful burns. He is the 14th victim of the Union elevator fire, which occurred Sept. 20.

QUAY GAVE BAIL

See Senator and Other Officials Arrested at Philadelphia on Charges of Conspiracy.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—Warrants were issued yesterday for the arrest of United States Senator Quay, his son Richard R. Quay, ex-State Treasurer Haywood and Charles H. McKee, law partner of Lieutenant Governor Lyon. The charges allege conspiracy with

John S. Hopkins, former cashier of the wrecked People's bank, who committed suicide just before the bank's failure last March.

Senator Quay and his son surrendered themselves yesterday afternoon and were held in $5,000 bail each for a hearing next Thursday. The defendants are accused of unlawfully loaning public moneys and buying and selling stocks.

The affidavit of Detective Myers, upon which the issuance of the warrants was based, is as follows: State of Pennsylvania, city and county of Philadelphia, ss.

Charles F. Myers, being sworn according to law, doth depose and say that Matthew Stanley Quay, Benjamin J. Haywood, Richard R. Quay and Charles H. McKee, and other persons to this deponent unknown, did unlawfully combine, confederate, conspire and agree to and with each other and the said persons unknown, to use the public moneys of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania for their own use, and also did combine, confederate, conspire and agree to and with each other and divers persons to this deponent unknown, and to and with John S. Hopkins, deceased, formerly cashier of the People's bank of Philadelphia, a corporation duly created and existing under the laws of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to unlawfully buy and sell stocks; that is, shares of stock in divers corporations, and did unlawfully use and employ the moneys of the People's bank within the county of Philadelphia and within two years last past.

All which deponent upon information and belief says is true. And further deponent saith not.

CHARLES F. MYERS.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 30th day of September, A. D., 1898. J. M. RUSH JERMON, Magistrate.

Benjamin J. Haywood of Harrisburg, cashier for the state treasurer of Pennsylvania, is under arrest at the Paxton hotel in Omaha, where he was attending the exposition. He is in custody of a detective and will be sent back to Philadelphia in care of an officer.

ALARMING INCREASE.

Sick in Porto Rico Will Make It Necessary to Send Troops Home.

[Correspondence.]

PONCE, Porto Rico, Sept. 27.—It is the well grounded and almost unanimous opinion of the medical staff of the American army in Porto Rico that the condition of the volunteer forces here necessitates their removal north.

Sickness is increasing and has been increasing during the past two or three weeks at an alarming rate. Today the sick report shows over 2,700 in hospitals or in quarters out of a total command of 10,000 men; that is, over 25 per cent of the troops are on the sick list. This, however, does not mean that there is an effective strength of 7,500 men.

The soldiers discharged from the hospitals as fit for duty are in nine cases out of ten incapable of service and if ordered on duty are almost invariably back in the hospital within a few days. The medical officers have found that the convalescents do not and seemingly cannot recover their strength in this climate and for this reason they are being sent north as rapidly as possible, several hundred leaving every week.

READY TO MEET.

American Cuban Commission So Inform the Spanish.

HAVANA, Oct. 2.—(Delayed in transmission) — Lieutenants Wade and Marsh returned from Matanzas today. Their mission was in connection with the relief supplies brought on the steamer Comal. Ten thousand rations were asked for the Cuban camps and 30,000 were given.

Colonel Clous, secretary of the American commission, today advised General Parrado that the American commissioners were prepared to meet the Spanish commission, as requested by the Spaniards. General Parrado said he would order Secretary Gierrenta to arrange for the meeting, which, it is believed, will take place on Thursday next.

One Negro Returned.

WASHINGTON, Ind., Oct. 4.—Ed Meyers, one of the negroes run out of town Sunday night, has just returned. He was terribly beaten by the strikers and is in bad condition. An affidavit may be filed against a certain member of Company D, One Hundred and Fifty-Ninth Indiana, who was alleged to have been in the mob. Mrs. Steve Young, a negro, says this soldier insulted her while he held a gun in her face. All was quiet at a late hour last night.

No Additional Sick on Ogdan.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Oct. 4.—General Lawton referred the question of sending more soldiers back to New York by the transport Ogdan to the principal military officials and it was decided that with the exception of some officers no additional troops should be sent by the Ogdan.

Will Ignore Vote on Prohibition.

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—Judging from present returns on the prohibition vote, barely one-fourth of those entitled to vote gave expression to their opinions on Thursday last. As a consequence it is feared that the government will ignore the whole proceeding.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT.

Peace Commission Hold an Important Session.

HAVE REACHED THE MAIN POINT.

Believed to Be the Question Concerning the Philippines—Adjourned Until Friday—Their Work May Be Finished in About a Month.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—Yesterday's session of the American and Spanish peace commissioners lasted until 4 o'clock, at which hour they adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock next Friday afternoon, such interval being desirable and necessary to allow separate consideration by each commission of matters requiring such course before the joint commission. The interval will be thus filled with work by each commission, the ultimate results being so facilitated.

The secretary of the Spanish commission arrived last night and the interval will be also employed by the secretaries jointly in maturing plans for the work and procedure. While the American commissioners were at luncheon yesterday General Merritt called at their hotel, but he did not wait to see them. He called again this morning to meet the members of the commission.

The Spanish and American commissioners will be received today by President Faure. The hour fixed for the reception of the Americans is 4:45 o'clock. General Merritt will accompany the Americans to this function, which will be held at the Palais de Elysee.

The opinion is now held that the work of the commissions may be finished within a month from the present time.

While it is the general impression that yesterday's meeting was again devoted to preliminaries and that the adjournment to Friday was taken only to enable the secretaries to draw up a schedule of work, the representative of the Associated Press learns that the session was highly important and that the Americans have made a demand of such character that the Spaniards found it necessary to ask for an adjournment in order to enable them to consult with the government at Madrid.

It is believed that the question concerns the Philippines and it is known that the Americans are highly pleased at having so soon reached what they consider a very important phase of the negotiations and consider the two sessions thus far held as very satisfactory to America. The fact that a member of the commission expressed the belief that the work would be completed within a month indicates a happy frame of mind.

In the Spanish camp great hopes are built on what they believe General Merritt will advise, namely, that the Philippines are incapable of self-government and that the whole situation does not warrant America in taking the responsibility for the entire Philippines. The Spaniards are quite ready to give whatever America asks in the way of ceding stations, but will resist more, to the verge of a renewal of hostilities.

SPAIN WILL OBJECT.

Will Combat Vigorously to Retain the Philippines.

MADRID, Oct. 4.—The reported intention of the United States government to retain the whole of the Philippine islands has created almost a state of stupefaction here and it is semi-officially announced that the Spanish government has resolved to vigorously combat any such action, which, it is claimed, the terms of the peace protocol preclude.

General Rios, governor of the Visayas islands, reports to the government another defeat of the insurgents in the province of Antigua. He says the Spaniards captured the town of Bugason, killing 24 of the insurgents.

MAY GO DIRECT.

Soldiers at Camp Meade Likely to Be Sent From There to Cuba.

Sick Taken Away.

CAMP MEADE, MIDDLETOWN, Pa., Oct. 4.—Major General Graham takes no stock in the report that the Second corps will be shipped from Camp Meade to Aniston, preparatory to being sent to the West Indies as an army of occupation. The health of his command is excellent and the general believes it will be retained in the north until it is driven to a warmer climate by cold weather. He thinks it would be folly to take the troops away from a healthy location and put them in an unhealthy place in the south and then ship them from there to Cuba, which is even more unhealthy. If the war department officials take his advice the corps will be shipped direct to Cuba from Camp Meade.

He proposes to have a series of reviews before the corps leave here. He will review the troops himself first to ascertain and correct any defects, and will follow this review with brigade reviews and general military functions. He says he will be very happy to parade the corps at the peace jubilee at Philadelphia if the war department gives him permission.

The Second West Virginia has been ordered to vacate its present quarters, which will be used as a second parade ground, the other parade ground being too far distant from the corps headquarters.

Chaplain Kelly returned from Gettysburg yesterday with 30 men of the West Virginia regiment who were taken to the Second division hospital. Four of the soldiers are suffering from typhoid fever and others from rheumatism. The West Virginians started on a march to York, where the regiment will be a big feature at the county fair. They will resume the march to Camp Meade on Friday, reaching the camp about Monday.

Yesterday afternoon a train under the auspices of the Red Cross Society took 48 sick soldiers to Philadelphia hospitals.

Colonel Girard thinks the city hospitals and the good nursing have saved many lives.

Private Joseph Cover, Company A, Tenth Ohio, died yesterday afternoon at the Raymond and Campbell's works, Middletown. Cover called at the works to sharpen his pocket knife on a felt wheel. He was refused and after the foreman turned his back Cover placed the knife on the wheel. The knife was scarcely on the wheel until it caught, flew off and struck the soldier in the right leg, severing an artery.

THE FOREST FIRES.

Still Raging in Wisconsin But Danger Believed to Be Over—Checked in Colorado.

CUMBERLAND, Wis., Oct. 4.—The bodies of an unknown man and boy were found yesterday in the woods between Almena and Poskin lake, burned beyond recognition. Several persons are still missing. Peter Ecklund, who was seriously burned in the forest fires, was brought to this city Sunday afternoon in a critical condition and it is thought he cannot live. A 4-year-old daughter of Rudolph Miller and a 7-year-old daughter of Nels Swanson were found in the woods one and one-half miles northeast of Almena so badly burned that they cannot recover. Mrs. Frank Henrichmeier, at Poskin lake, died this morning as the result of fright and exhaustion in fighting fires.

Relief rooms were opened yesterday and relief is being extended the starving families.

The fire is still raging on one side of this city, but the greatest danger is believed to be over. In the town of Johnston, Polk county, eight miles distant, heavy loss of farm property is reported and fires are still raging.

DENVER, Oct. 4.—The forest fires have been checked in many places by snow and rain. Idaho Springs reports that the fires on the west slope of the divide are pretty nearly under control.

Hobson's Change of Program.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Oct. 4.—Lieutenant Hobson has arrived here on a visit. He changed his program and worked for an entire week on the Vizcaya in recovering her guns. Today divers will make a final examination of the Vizcaya's bottom in the hope that there is a bare possibility of raising the ship. Hobson will afterward proceed to the wreck of the Almirante Oquendo and take off her guns, leaving the Cristobal Colon until the last.

Can Fix Their Own Rates.

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 4.—The Michigan supreme court, in an opinion filed late yesterday afternoon, reversed the decision of the Wayne county (Detroit) circuit court in the case brought by Governor Pingree to compel the Michigan Central Railway Company to sell mileage books at a flat 2-cent rate. The court holds the company under its special charter, has a right to fix its own tolls; that this is a vested right which the state must pay for if it takes it away.

Ordered to Porto Rico.

CHICKAUGA, CHATTANOOGA MILITARY PARK, Ga., Oct. 4.—An order was received from the war department yesterday directing the Sixth regiment, United States volunteers, immunes, now stationed at Camp Thomas, to report at New York by Thursday to embark for Porto Rico. The regiment will leave here tonight. About 225 men are out on furloughs, but all have been called in.

Remanded For a Week.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Nancy Guilford, the midwife of Bridgeport, Conn., or the woman suspected of being Dr. Guilford, was remanded at Bow street police court here yesterday for a week after evidence had been presented proving her identity with the woman who landed at Liverpool last week from the steamer Vancouver.

An Interview With the President.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Major General Joseph Wheeler was at the White House yesterday and had a brief interview with the president. General Wheeler said his only mission here was to testify before the war investigating commission, which had summoned him as a witness, and that after being examined he would leave immediately for his camp at Huntsville.

TO BE RELIEVED.

Fresh Troops Will Be Sent to Porto Rico.

VOLUNTEERS THERE WILL RETURN

The President Will Have No More Troops Mustered Out Until Situation Is Cleared Up—He Praises the Southern Soldiers. Willing to Remain in Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—To a number of interested callers yesterday President McKinley had occasion to reiterate his determination to have no more troops mustered out for the present. In the course of several interviews he stated in substance that it was the intention of the administration to send fresh troops to Porto Rico to take the place of the volunteers who will have to be returned home and who will be given furloughs. He stated very firmly that there would be no general discharges until the situation was "cleared up."

The president also during the day testified to his appreciation of the soldiers from the south. He said one of the results of the war which particularly gratified him was that the war seemed to have effaced the last vestige of sectional feeling as between the north and south. He referred to the hearty responses from the south when the war broke out, and concluded with the statement that if the elimination of all differences of feelings between the north and south was to continue permanently he would be a happy man. He also spoke of the evident contentment of the southern troops to remain in service as long as they were needed. The troops which have been ordered to Porto Rico will relieve a like number of regiments now in the island, the organizations to be designated by General Brooke.

WILL START TODAY.

The War Investigating Committee to Examine Witnesses—Several Complaints About Transports.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—All the members of the war investigating commission were present at yesterday's session except ex-Governor Beaver, and the announcement was made that he would be in attendance today, when General Wheeler will be present as the first witness before the commission. Yesterday's session was devoted largely to the consideration of the method for the examination of witnesses, and in this connection the question of administering oaths was discussed at considerable length. The members generally took the position that under a strict construction the commission had no authority to compel a witness to be sworn by a member of the commission, but there was also a general opinion that the witnesses would not raise technical objections and that they in all probability would submit to be sworn without opposition.

It was suggested that the whole difficulty might be avoided by getting the president to appoint one of the officers of the board to the office of a notary public and it is probable that this request will be made with the end in view of having an officer capable of administering oaths present in case of emergency.

To Governor Beaver was assigned the task of leading in the examination of witnesses.

The commission also received several additional communications, which received attention. Among them was a letter from Surgeon General Sternberg inviting the commission to visit his office.

Several complaints were made in regard to the method of transporting men from Santiago, the names of the vessels on which it was alleged the abuses had occurred being the Concha, the Seneca, the Breakwater, the Olive and the City of Washington. It was decided to make a thorough investigation of this branch of the service.

The commission also decided to permit the presence during the hearings of three stenographers as representatives of the press in addition to the representatives of the press associations.

The commission called at the war department late yesterday and saw Secretary Alger, Assistant Secretary McKilloh and Adjutant General Corbin for a few minutes. The call was purely social.

Made Demonstration Against Europeans.

PEKIN, Oct. 3.—During the celebration yesterday of the festival of the moon, the drunken crowds which had gathered upon the streets threw mud upon all Europeans who made their appearance. As a precautionary measure the Russian legation ordered an escort of Cossacks from Port Arthur. The British minister also ordered a guard of 25 marines from Wei-Hai-Wei.

Shafter at Governor's Island.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—General W. F. Shafter, who has been appointed to the head of the department of the east, went to Governor's Island yesterday to take charge. He was received with a major general's salute.

Robert Wallace is now in the west with several of the foreigners, who visited Cleveland. Before he returns he will stop in San Francisco, and the proprietors of the Union iron works, which built the famous battleship Oregon, will be approached as to whether they will go into the deal.

It is believed that every shipbuilding, gunmaking and armor plate making firm in the United States has been in the negotiations. The projectors claim they can raise a capital of $200,000,000.

A WARRANT FOR HIS ARREST.

Haldeman Charged With Murder of Ex-Senator Richardson.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 4.—Coroner Haerr swore out a warrant for the arrest of W. T. Haldeman on the charge of murdering ex-State Senator J. C. Richardson. The authorities in Chicago were telegraphed to arrest Haldeman, but up to midnight no word was received of Haldeman, who was seen in Chicago yesterday. Meantime the inquest proceeds with Harry Probasco, a brother-in-law of Haldeman, and a relative of ex-Senator and Secretary John Sherman, representing the defense. After the funeral today the son of Richardson and other members of the family will appear as witnesses.

Richardson and Haldeman were not only brothers-in-law, but closely associated in business, partners in real estate and other matters as well as in the Lockland paper mill.

Ohio Strikers Win a Victory.

BELLAIRE, Oct. 4.—The miners' strike at Dillonvale and Long Run has been settled, part of the men returned to work yesterday and others will go in today. Over 1,000 men were out. The settlement is a victory for the miners, as all points but one were gained by them. The eight-hour day, it is alleged, had been ignored by the operators.

Caused by Disappointment.

YOUNGSTOWN, Oct. 4.—General James L. Botsford is seriously ill at his home on Wick avenue and is not expected to recover. It is said that his health has given away under disappointment on account of being named inspector of volunteers when he had been led to build his hopes for something much better.

Died After Much Suffering.

TOLEDO, Oct. 4.—Superintendent W. J. Parks of the Union elevator died at the hospital yesterday after suffering for three weeks with awful burns. He is the 14th victim of the Union elevator fire, which occurred Sept. 20.

QUAY GAVE BAIL.

U. S. Senator and Other Officials Arrested at Philadelphia on Charges of Conspiracy.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—Warrants were issued yesterday for the arrest of United States Senator Quay, his son Richard B. Quay, ex-State Treasurer Haywood and Charles H. McKee, law partner of Lieutenant Governor Lyon. The charges allege conspiracy with

John S. Hopkins, former cashier of the wrecked People's bank, who committed suicide just before the bank's failure last March.

Senator Quay and his son surrendered themselves yesterday afternoon and were held in $5,000 bail each for a hearing next Thursday. The defendants are accused of unlawfully loaning public moneys and buying and selling stocks.

The affidavit of Detective Myers, upon which the issuance of the warrants was based, is as follows: State of Pennsylvania, city and county of Philadelphia, ss.

Charles F. Myers, being sworn according to law, doth depose and say that Matthew Stanley Quay, Benjamin J. Haywood, Richard R. Quay and Charles H. McKee, and other persons to this deponent unknown, did unlawfully combine, confederate, conspire and agree to and with each other and the said persons unknown, to use the public moneys of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania for their own use, and also did combine, confederate, conspire and agree to and with each other and divers persons to this deponent unknown, and to and with John S. Hopkins, deceased, formerly cashier of the People's bank of Philadelphia, a corporation duly created and existing under the laws of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to unlawfully buy and sell stocks; that is, shares of stock in divers corporations, and did unlawfully use and employ the moneys of the People's bank within the county of Philadelphia and within two years last past.

All which deponent upon information and belief says is true. And further deponent saith not.

CHAS. E. MYERS.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 30th day of September, A. D., 1898.

J. M. RUSH JERMON, Magistrate. Benjamin J. Haywood of Harrisburg, cashier for the state treasurer of Pennsylvania, is under arrest at the Paxton hotel in Omaha, where he was attending the exposition. He is in custody of a detective and will be sent back to Philadelphia in care of an officer.

THE FOREST FIRES.

Still Raging in Wisconsin But Danger Believed to Be Over—Checked in Colorado.

CUMBERLAND, Wis., Oct. 4.—The bodies of an unknown man and boy were found yesterday in the woods between Almena and Poskin lake, burned beyond recognition. Several persons are still missing. Peter Ecklund, who was seriously burned in the forest fires, was brought to this city Sunday afternoon in a critical condition and it is thought he cannot live. A 4-year-old daughter of Rudolph Miller and a 7-year-old daughter of Nels Swanson were found in the woods one and one-half miles northeast of Almena so badly burned that they cannot recover. Mrs. Frank Henrichmeier, at Poskin lake, died this morning as the result of fright and exhaustion in fighting fires.

Relief rooms were opened yesterday and relief is being extended the starving families.

The fire is still raging on one side of this city, but the greatest danger is believed to be over. In the town of Johnston, Polk county, eight miles distant, heavy loss of farm property is reported and fires are still raging.

DENVER, Oct. 4.—The forest fires have been checked in many places by snow and rain. Idaho Springs reports that the fires on the west slope of the divide are pretty nearly under control.

Hobson's Change of Program.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Oct. 4.—Lieutenant Hobson has arrived here on a visit. He changed his program and worked for an entire week on the Vizcaya in recovering her guns. Today divers will make a final examination of the Vizcaya's bottom in the hope that there is a bare possibility of raising the ship. Hobson will afterward proceed to the wreck of the Almirante Oquendo and take off her guns, leaving the Cristobal Colon until the last.

Can Fix Their Own Rates.

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 4.—The Michigan supreme court, in an opinion filed late yesterday afternoon, reversed the decision of the Wayne county (Detroit) circuit court in the case brought by Governor Pingree to compel the Michigan Central Railway Company to sell mileage books at a flat 2-cent rate. The court holds the company under its special charter, has a right to fix its own tolls; that this is a vested right which the state must pay for if it takes it away.

Ordered to Porto Rico.

CHICKAMAUGA, CHATTANOOGA MILITARY PARK, Ga., Oct. 4.—An order was received from the war department yesterday directing the Sixth regiment, United States volunteers, immunes, now stationed at Camp Thomas, to report at New York by Thursday to embark for Porto Rico. The regiment will leave here tonight. About 225 men are out on furloughs, but all have been called in.

Remanded For a Week.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Nancy Guilford, the midwife of Bridgeport, Conn., or the woman suspected of being Dr. Guilford, was remanded at Bow street police court here yesterday for a week after evidence had been presented proving her identity with the woman who landed at Liverpool last week from the steamer Vancouver.

An Interview With the President.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Major General Joseph Wheeler was at the White House yesterday and had a brief interview with the president. General Wheeler said his only mission here was to testify before the war investigating commission, which had summoned him as a witness, and that after being examined he would leave immediately for his camp at Huntsville.

TO BE RELIEVED.

Fresh Troops Will Be Sent to Porto Rico.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—To a number of interested callers yesterday President McKinley had occasion to reiterate his determination to have no more troops mustered out for the present. In the course of several interviews he stated in substance that it was the intention of the administration to send fresh troops to Porto Rico to take the place of the volunteers who will have to be returned home and who will be given furloughs. He stated very firmly that there would be no general discharges until the situation was "cleared up."

The president also during the day testified to his appreciation of the soldiers from the south. He said one of the results of the war which particularly gratified him was that the war seemed to have effaced the last vestige of sectional feeling as between the north and south. He referred to the hearty responses from the south when the war broke out, and concluded with the statement that if the elimination of all differences of feelings between the north and south was to continue permanently he would be a happy man. He also spoke of the evident contentment of the southern troops to remain in service as long as they were needed. The troops which have been ordered to Porto Rico will relieve a like number of regiments now in the island, the organizations to be designated by General Brooke.

WILL START TODAY.

The War Investigating Committee to Examine Witnesses—Several Complaints About Transports.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—All the members of the war investigating commission were present at yesterday's session except ex-Governor Beaver, and the announcement was made that he would be in attendance today, when General Wheeler will be present as the first witness before the commission. Yesterday's session was devoted largely to the consideration of the method for the examination of witnesses, and in this connection the question of administering oaths was discussed at considerable length. The members generally took the position that under a strict construction the commission had no authority to compel a witness to be sworn by a member of the commission, but there was also a general opinion that the witnesses would not raise technical objections and that they in all probability would submit to be sworn without opposition.

It was suggested that the whole difficulty might be avoided by getting the president to appoint one of the officers of the board to the office of a notary public and it is probable that this request will be made with the end in view of having an officer capable of administering oaths present in case of emergency.

To Governor Beaver was assigned the task of leading in the examination of witnesses.

The commission also received several additional communications, which received attention. Among them was a letter from Surgeon General Sternberg inviting the commission to visit his office.

Several complaints were made in regard to the method of transporting men from Santiago, the names of the vessels on which it was alleged the abuses had occurred being the Concha, the Seneca, the Breakwater, the Olive and the City of Washington. It was decided to make a thorough investigation of this branch of the service.

The commission also decided to permit the presence during the hearings of three stenographers as representatives of the press in addition to the representatives of the press associations.

The commission called at the war department late yesterday and saw Secretary Alger, Assistant Secretary Meiklejohn and Adjutant General Corbin for a few minutes. The call was purely social.

Made Demonstration Against Europeans.

PEKIN, Oct. 3.—During the celebration yesterday of the festival of the moon, the drunken crowds which had gathered upon the streets threw mud upon all Europeans who made their appearance. As a precautionary measure the Russian legation ordered an escort of Cossacks from Port Arthur. The British minister also ordered a guard of 25 marines from Wei-Hai-Wei.

Shafter at Governor's Island.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—General W. F. Shafter, who has been appointed to the head of the department of the east, went to Governor's Island yesterday to take charge. He was received with a major general's salute.

TO BE HERE TOMORROW

Cleveland Merchants Are Coming Early.

IN WELLSVILLE ALL NIGHT

They Will Make an Early Start, and Coming to This Place by Special Train Will Spend Two Hours Visiting Their Customers and Looking Over the City.

The Cleveland business men who are touring a portion of Ohio and a small part of Pennsylvania in order that they may visit their customers, will be in East Liverpool tomorrow morning.

This morning Agent Adam Hill received a letter from C. L. Kimpball, assistant general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania lines, stating that the party would leave Cleveland in a special train this morning and reach Wellsville tonight at 6:55 o'clock, after visiting all towns of importance on the main line and Steubenville.

They will leave Wellsville at 8 o'clock and spend two hours in this city. Each merchant will call upon his customers, and it is then proposed to gather all the visitors together and show them through a pottery. The plan was only suggested this morning, and is being worked out today.

The board of trade and as many of the business men as possible will meet the visitors at the train and conduct them over the city.

HOGAN'S ALLEY.

A Favorite With Theater Goers Is Coming to Town.

"Hogan's Alley" with the original company with Gilmore & Leonard and their latest edition of this popular nonsensicality will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House on Wednesday, Oct. 5. With this season the farce enters upon its third year of phenomenal success, everything that is new having been added to make it the laugh beater of the world, and again the Yellow Kid comes into prominence with a batch of originalities that he says he has laid away for a rainy day, but as they are too good to keep he does not know of a better way to dispose of them than by giving them to the lovers of fun: everybody who reads the papers are acquainted with him and his bright sayings, and in this edition he is in his element with his sweetheart Nelly, played by the vivacious little soubrette Mazie King, all the original characters being faithfully portrayed, Hogan and his rival Brogan being played by the propounders of Irish wit, Gilmore & Leonard, while the part of Mrs. Brogan falls in the hands of Miss Mina Shirley.

NEXT MONDAY

Will Pilgrim Commandery Leave For Pittsburgh.

Pilgrim Commandery, Knights Templars, are drilling every evening and expect to make a good showing at the conclave next week. They will leave for Pittsburgh on the early train Monday.

The commandery has grown wonderfully since its organization, and during the years it has been the baby of the state it has shown wonderful progress.

On the River.

The rain of early this morning will not cause any rise in the river and the stage still remains low. The marks at the wharf this morning registered 1.9 feet and stationary. There is only a very slight hope of the river rising before next week if it does so then.

TRADE WITH THE ORIENT

Benefits to Follow Building the Nicaraguan Canal.

THE JAPANESE OUR FRIENDS.

Mr. Shizuo Kondo, President of the Japan-American Commercial and Industrial Association of Tokyo, Explains the Possibilities of Commerce—Says We Will Finally Outdo Our Japanese Rivals—Need of American Bottoms.

Mr. Shizuo Kondo, president of the Japan-American Commercial and Industrial association of Tokyo, Japan, delivered an address the other night before the Manufacturers' association of New York at its headquarters in Brooklyn borough on the possible advantages to be derived through commercial intercourse between Japan and the United States. Mr. Kondo urged the construction of the Nicaragua canal as an outlet to the Pacific. He began by referring to the older and once powerful nations of the old world and the desire of the modern nations of Europe for strong support from one another, saying that stanch Germany had been obliged to invite an alliance with England, France had sought Russia, and that England now had a liking for the American eagle. Then he added:

"Speaking unofficially, I may say that Japanese money is being put in large amounts on Uncle Sam. The marvelous conquests of western men have swept away old conditions, and today the commercial center of the world is rushing from the Mediterranean sea to both shores of the Atlantic, where it now controls. The conviction comes home to you in no uncertain manner that the present Atlantic commercial supremacy is seeking an outlet into the Pacific ocean. Through the Nicaragua canal—an enterprise greater than that of the Suez canal, because it will certainly revolutionize all trade—will pass a commerce unequalled in the history of the world. Whosoever accomplishes this gigantic work will be greater and nobler than any king or emperor or man who ever lived for the reason that this canal will be the searchlight of civilization and progress to the 700,000,000 of that population which lives about the shores of the Pacific ocean and in its islands and will awaken these people to the blessings of liberty, independence, prosperity and education.

"The dawn of Pacific supremacy will date from the successful achievement of the Nicaragua canal. Pacific cables will undoubtedly be completed about the same time, thus linking the trade of your Pacific coast to the western borders of South America, Australia, Hawaii, Japan, Korea, China, Philippines, Straits Settlements and even India. These countries are universally accepted as the future markets of the world. Under no circumstances should the United States fail to utilize every opportunity to control Pacific trade.

"The motive for your recent war, to deliver the neighboring island of Cuba from slavery, misadministration and anarchy, together with various acts of your government in the determination, was the open announcement of justice, righteousness and humanity, and has been highly applauded by Japan. Hawaii has already been annexed as a side issue of the war—the natural sequence of political expediency and public policy. Once you have annexed Hawaii the retention of the Philippines is expected by all the powers concerned, avowedly or tacitly, as the rightful fruits of conquest. Furthermore, I firmly believe that your act of retaining the Philippines is the act of humanity and civilization. The formal presence of the stars and stripes in the critical eastern amphitheater would eventually clear up the treacherous clouds that have long been hanging over our horizon. Indeed your participation in eastern affairs is greatly desired by all Asiatic nations, and especially by Japan.

"Japan looks to the conclusion of a reciprocal trade with the United States as the first step in promoting growth of closer commercial relations and clearer political understandings. Since Japan was awakened by the patient efforts of the United States and inspired by the genius, brains and minds of the Yankee she has quickly adopted the spirit of modern civilization and has made a record of national progress never equaled. Japan's purchases from abroad become larger every year. Your exportation to Japan increased about 65 per cent in 1897. The United States will find Japan a profitable customer rather than a dangerous competitor. Our people look upon the United States as a sister nation and regard her people as our benefactors and firm friends.

"You here witness the representative of the entire population of Japan in the Japan-American Commercial and Industrial association, the object of which is to encourage the consumption of American products in Japan as well as in all eastern countries, to ameliorate any difficulties in existing methods of trade and to secure a reciprocal traffic between the United States and Japan. I firmly believe that the time has now come for a vigorous movement on the part of American commercial and industrial bodies to co-operate with us in guiding the current of racing commercial supremacy.

"The expansion of American export trade clearly demonstrates the need of carrying bottoms under its own flag. It must be remembered that the largest part of the eastern trade has been carried by the competitive flags of the United States. The statistics of 1896 show in the value of merchandise carried under the American flag an increase of 15 per cent as compared with 1892, while England has gained 74 per cent and Germany 131 per cent in the same period. These disadvantages, coupled with the high cost of transportation and the loss of time involved in making shipments, disturb the encouragement of consumption of American products abroad, and also drive her prospective customers to a market that makes prompt shipments at regular rates of freight. You are probably accustomed to hear such complaints from all your eastern customers. We always ask, Why do you Americans not start direct lines of your own?

"Your exportable merchandise is not too well beloved by foreign carriers. At this propitious time the United States should liberally subsidize shipping and encourage merchantmen to such a degree as to enjoy the entire benefits of the projected Nicaraguan canal. The pioneer merchantmen of Great Britain made a thorough exploration for years, and have been patiently catering to eastern markets, following closely the business requirements and commercial necessities of these markets; educating the people to the consumption of western products with the ultimate object of Anglicizing these profitable markets.

"The result of this missionary work was to monopolize Asiatic trade to such a degree that the word 'British' came to be considered a synonymous term for 'all imported goods,' until the recent amazing industrial development of Germany encroached in that quarter of the globe. The export trade of the United States has grown very rapidly in the last year—much faster than that of any other nation. The fact is shown that while United States exports to Japan increased 65 per cent in 1897 over 1896, the total increase of export to Japan from all other countries is only 28 per cent in the same year.

"This extraordinary progress of American commerce in Japan is due not so much to special effort put forth by American manufacturers and merchants, but much credit should be given to the excellent quality of your products. I cannot too vigorously call your attention to the suicidal policy of intrusting the explanations of the merits of your products to foreign carriers and merchants. At heart they have no sympathy for your splendid handicraft. Our government and our association have taken steps to correct this wrong, so far as it may, by the establishment of a museum where American goods at least have a fair show. We look very anxiously to this great republic as a desirable market for our products.

"The time will soon come when you will outdo all your rivals in Japan. This is also true of all eastern countries. In every part of the globe Germany and England are universally regarded as international commercial factors. They are instinctively active in furthering commercial relations with the rest of the world. They stimulate their people, furnish them every report and investigation of commercial and industrial nature with a thorough education of the trade capabilities and mercantile methods of other countries. Wherever they go there you shall find a well equipped organization and publications for their interest.

"The unlimited natural resources of the United States, in time worked up by the genius and brains of enterprising Yankees, are bound to prevail all over the world. Even as it is today, your flour, cotton, sole leather, rails, nails, watches, kerosene oil, cigarettes, electrical machinery and supplies, boilers and engines, tubes and pipes, locomotives, railway material, leather belting and other innumerable products are the principal exports from the United States to Japan and are accepted without any special effort having been made by your merchants.

"Now, gentlemen, the need of trade organizations abroad for the interest of American commerce and industry calls for your earnest support, and with this object in view the Japan-American Commercial and Industrial association came to life with its organ, The Japan-American Commercial Journal, printed in Japanese and English, the first and only official commercial publication which advocates your interest in Japan as well as all eastern countries.

"The recent war has proved that you have an army, a navy and boundless resources. The cry of 'Remember the Maine!' was heard not only by the Spaniards, but it echoed around the world. We in Japan took up the cry in full sympathy and in the spirit of destiny, knowing that the inevitable was upon us, and that after a brief rest on Atlantic shores, regal commerce with her gorgeous retinue was again preparing to sweep westward. Therefore we have answered your cry with a new one, 'Remember the Pacific!' We of Japan have been called the Yankees of Asia, and we are proud of the name."—New York Times.

USED WIT AND CASH.

MOST UNIQUE ENTERPRISE OF AMERICAN WOMEN NOW TITLED.

Four of Them Are Credited With Aiding the American Navy—Loaded a "Derelict" With British Munitions—Neutrality Laws Evaded.

Three American women who have married titled Englishmen are credited with having planned and achieved in aid of the United States what was probably the most unique enterprise during the war with Spain. They are Mrs. George N. Curzon, wife of the new viceroy of India and formerly Miss Mary Leiter of Chicago; Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, wife of the British secretary of state for the colonies and the daughter of William C. Endicott, formerly Mr. Cleveland's secretary of war, and the Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt. They were aided by the Countess de Castellane, formerly Miss Anna Gould. By their wit and backed by their money these women, it is now asserted, set the laws of neutrality at naught and landed British arms and munitions in the United States for the American navy through a plan which has no known parallel. They did this, it is stated, at a time when the United States was thought to be in great need of war material and carried their scheme through without a hitch.

Knowledge of this brilliant achievement only leaked out the other day. In the Brooklyn navy yard, in an inlet near the "boneyard," is a clipper built East Indian on which is painted the name Scipio. But close scrutiny, it is claimed, would reveal that Scipio had been rather rudely painted over another name—that of Ravenna, which, by the way, is the name of a regular boat of the English Occidental and Oriental Steamship company. The Ravenna arrived at London from a voyage in May and went to her dock on the Thames. At this time the United States had made up its mind that it was going to have war and also going to have the munitions of war. England had sundry guns and much powder that America would like to make a deal for. But the neutrality laws—ah, there was the rub!

And all this time the good ship Ravenna was lying at her dock in the Thames. Then she sailed away, not to the orient, as of old, but to Antwerp. She was flying the union jack of England, but the company's flag was not over her. At Antwerp she loaded with ballast, ballast neatly packed in large boxes and very carefully handled, and then she steamed away for a Canadian port, which she never reached. Meanwhile Cuba was blockaded, and the American coast was patrolled. Among the scouting boats was one, said to be the cruiser Columbia, which one morning steamed straight for a given point in the ocean, it seemed, and to the surprise of her crew, when in the vicinity of Cape Henry, she sighted and made for what proved to be a most mysterious derelict. She was in good trim, without leak or injury, but there was no living soul aboard of her or in sight. The story goes she bore the name Ravenna.

A little later and two powerful navy tugs, the Narkeeta and the Nina, steamed up the bay with a clipper built ship flying the American flag and bearing the name Scipio. She was supposed to be in ballast, but that ballast was very carefully handled, as carefully as had been the ballast put on board the Ravenna at Antwerp, and it was taken to the arsenal. Gossips do say that some of those guns that England had and some of the powder that America needed so badly just at that time found their way across the Atlantic and fell into our hands in good season. Light on the mystery has been shed recently. When war was declared, the New Orleans, in England, from Brazil, had to leave her English port, and the Duchess of Marlborough, who was Consuelo Vanderbilt, became aroused to action, so the story goes, to aid the United States. She planned, with the approval of her husband, and interested Mrs. Chamberlain and Mrs. Curzon in the movement. The Countess de Castellane is said to have joined the compact later on.

They bought the Ravenna outright, it is asserted, and loaded her down not only with projectiles and ammunition, but with some of the guns which the New Orleans had not had time to mount before sailing. One morning the cruiser Columbia, whether by accident or design has not been officially stated, picked up the Ravenna a short distance off

A woman who takes chances with her health is simply gambling with the Black Devil of Disease. If she has any weakness or derangement of the delicate organism of her sex, to rely upon an unskilled, inexperienced, general practitioner is to risk her health upon a gambler's hazard. Her only real safety is in the careful well-digested advice of a physician who has had wide, special experience in diseases of this particular class.

The chief consulting physician of the famous Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. R. V. Pierce, has devoted thirty years of special study and practice to the weaknesses and diseases peculiar to women. His grand medicine, the "Favorite Prescription," has done more to restore perfect health and strength to women than any other medicine. It is the only proprietary medicine devised for this purpose by an educated, skilled specialist in woman's peculiar ailments.

A woman writing to Dr. Pierce regarding herself may feel absolute assurance of receiving, free of charge, the best professional advice by means of which the most obstinate of these delicate troubles may be promptly relieved and permanently cured.

Barbra A. Mudd, of Indian Creek, Monroe Co., Mo., writes: "I am very thankful for what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription did for me. I was all broken down from nervous prostration, but since taking this medicine I have had more relief than from all the doctors. Your 'Favorite Prescription' did me a world of good."

What is it? Why, Doan's Kidney Pills! The little Kidney Wonder-Workers. What will they do?

Read what a citizen says: Mrs. A. Searight, No. 152 High street, East End, says: "I had a severe attack of kidney disease over a year ago, which confined me to my bed for about three months. It affected my entire system and while I was able to be about I never got completely rid of it. I suffered almost constantly with a dull, heavy pain across the loins; if I sat for any length of time, or did anything that brought me into a stooping position and attempted to rise, there would be a sharp shooting pain in the small of my back that felt as if a knife or other sharp instrument had pierced me. I could not sleep when I went to bed, expecting to get rest. I was often robbed of it by nervousness and pain in my back. I have risen unrefreshed and more tired and worn out than I was when I retired. I had taken so much medicine without being cured that I was discouraged. I belong to the Daughters of Liberty and the Maccabees and notified them to drop me, but they refused to do so; this made me more determined than ever to get well, as I did not want to be a burden to them. Doan's Kidney Pills presented themselves in the form of a newspaper account. I got some at the W. & W. Pharmacy. They proved to be the proper remedy for me. Their mild and gentle influence gradually reduced the pain in my back and strengthened the weakness. All the symptoms having disappeared, I rested well at night and gained in strength and weight every day. Of course I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills; it would not be right to refuse to, for the benefit of other sufferers."

Cape Henry. It was singular that the cruiser should have been there, and more so that the Ravenna had not a single man aboard. Comment is unnecessary, but the lifeboats were missing and the crew has never been heard of and probably never will be. In other words, the Columbia found it convenient to board the Ravenna and find what she could find. She found just the sort of ammunition that the New Orleans had needed. The Ravenna, under her regular flag, is expected to reappear in the oriental trade in a little while, provided she is repurchased.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Indeed your participation in eastern affairs is greatly desired by all Asiatic nations, and especially by Japan.

"Japan looks to the conclusion of a reciprocal trade with the United States as the first step in promoting growth of closer commercial relations and clearer political understandings. Since Japan was awakened by the patient efforts of the United States and inspired by the genius, brains and minds of the Yankee she has quickly adopted the spirit of modern civilization and has made a record of national progress never equaled. Japan's purchases from abroad become larger every year. Your exportation to Japan increased about 65 per cent in 1897. The United States will find Japan a profitable customer rather than a dangerous competitor. Our people look upon the United States as a sister nation and regard her people as our benefactors and firm friends.

"You here witness the representative of the entire population of Japan in the Japan-American Commercial and Industrial association, the object of which is to encourage the consumption of American products in Japan as well as in all eastern countries, to ameliorate any difficulties in existing methods of trade and to secure a reciprocal traffic between the United States and Japan. I firmly believe that the time has now come for a vigorous movement on the part of American commercial and industrial bodies to co-operate with us in guiding the current of Pacific commercial supremacy.

"The expansion of American export trade clearly demonstrates the need of carrying bottoms under its own flag. It must be remembered that the largest part of the eastern trade has been carried by the competitive flags of the United States. The statistics of 1896 show in the value of merchandise carried under the American flag an increase of 15 per cent as compared with 1892, while England has gained 74 per cent and Germany 131 per cent in the same period. These disadvantages, coupled with the high cost of transportation and the loss of time involved in making shipments, disturb the encouragement of consumption of American products abroad, and also drive her prospective customers to a market that makes prompt shipments at regular rates of freight. You are probably accustomed to hear such complaints from all your eastern customers. We always ask, Why do you Americans not start direct lines of your own?

"Your exportable merchandise is not too well beloved by foreign carriers. At this propitious time the United States should liberally subsidize shipping and encourage merchantmen to such a degree as to enjoy the entire benefits of the projected Nicaraguan canal. The pioneer merchantmen of Great Britain made a thorough exploration for years, and have been patiently catering to eastern markets, following closely the business requirements and commercial necessities of these markets; educating the people to the consumption of western products with the ultimate object of Anglicizing these profitable markets.

"The result of this missionary work was to monopolize Asiatic trade to such a degree that the word 'British' came to be considered a synonymous term for 'all imported goods,' until the recent amazing industrial development of Germany encroached in that quarter of the globe. The export trade of the United States has grown very rapidly in the last year—much faster than that of any other nation. The fact is shown that while United States exports to Japan increased 65 per cent in 1897 over 1896, the total increase of export to Japan from all other countries is only 28 per cent in the same year.

"This extraordinary progress of American commerce in Japan is due not so much to special effort put forth by American manufacturers and merchants, but much credit should be given to the excellent quality of your products. I cannot too vigorously call your attention to the suicidal policy of intrusting the explanations of the merits of your products to foreign carriers and merchants. At heart they have no sympathy for your splendid handicraft. Our government and our association have taken steps to correct this wrong, so far as it may, by the establishment of a museum where American goods at least have a fair show. We look very anxiously to this great republic as a desirable market for our products.

"The time will soon come when you will outdo all your rivals in Japan. This is also true of all eastern countries. In every part of the globe Germany and England are universally regarded as international commercial factors. They are instinctively active in furthering commercial relations with the rest of the world. They stimulate their people, furnish them every report and investigation of commercial and industrial nature with a thorough education of the trade capabilities and mercantile methods of other countries. Wherever they go there you shall find a well equipped organization and publications for their interest.

"The unlimited natural resources of the United States, in time worked up by the genius and brains of enterprising Yankees, are bound to prevail all over the world. Even as it is today, your flour, cotton, sole leather, rails, nails, watches, kerosene oil, cigarettes, electrical machinery and supplies, boilers and engines, tubes and pipes, locomotives, railway material, leather belting and other innumerable products are the principal exports from the United States to Japan and are accepted without any special effort having been made by your merchants.

"Now, gentlemen, the need of trade organizations abroad for the interest of American commerce and industry calls for your earnest support, and with this object in view the Japan-American Commercial and Industrial association came to life with its organ, The Japan-American Commercial Journal, printed in Japanese and English, the first and only official commercial publication which advocates your interest in Japan as well as all eastern countries.

"The recent war has proved that you have an army, a navy and boundless resources. The cry of 'Remember the Maine!' was heard not only by the Spaniards, but it echoed around the world. We in Japan took up the cry in full sympathy and in the spirit of destiny, knowing that the inevitable was upon us, and that after a brief rest on Atlantic shores, regal commerce with her gorgeous retinue was again preparing to sweep westward. Therefore we have answered your cry with a new one, 'Remember the Pacific!' We of Japan have been called the Yankees of Asia, and we are proud of the name."—New York Times.

USED WIT AND CASH.

MOST UNIQUE ENTERPRISE OF AMERICAN WOMEN NOW TITLED.

Four of Them Are Credited With Aiding the American Navy—Loaded a "Derelict" With British Munitions—Neutrality Laws Evaded.

Three American women who have married titled Englishmen are credited with having planned and achieved in aid of the United States what was probably the most unique enterprise during the war with Spain. They are Mrs. George N. Curzon, wife of the new viceroy of India and formerly Miss Mary Leiter of Chicago; Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, wife of the British secretary of state for the colonies and the daughter of William C. Endicott, formerly Mr. Cleveland's secretary of war, and the Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt. They were aided by the Countess de Castellane, formerly Miss Anna Gould. By their wit and backed by their money these women, it is now asserted, set the laws of neutrality at naught and landed British arms and munitions in the United States for the American navy through a plan which has no known parallel. They did this, it is stated, at a time when the United States was thought to be in great need of war material and carried their scheme through without a hitch.

Knowledge of this brilliant achievement only leaked out the other day. In the Brooklyn navy yard, in an inlet near the "boneyard," is a clipper built East Indian on which is painted the name Scipio. But close scrutiny, it is claimed, would reveal that Scipio had been rather rudely painted over another name—that of Ravenna, which, by the way, is the name of a regular boat of the English Occidental and Oriental Steamship company. The Ravenna arrived at London from a voyage in May and went to her dock on the Thames. At this time the United States had made up its mind that it was going to have war and also going to have the munitions of war. England had sundry guns and much powder that America would like to make a deal for. But the neutrality laws—ah, there was the rub!

And all this time the good ship Ravenna was lying at her dock in the Thames. Then she sailed away, not to

the orient, as of old, but to Antwerp. She was flying the union jack of England, but the company's flag was not over her. At Antwerp she loaded with ballast, ballast neatly packed in large boxes and very carefully handled, and then she steamed away for a Canadian port, which she never reached. Meanwhile Cuba was blockaded, and the American coast was patrolled. Among the scouting boats was one, said to be the cruiser Columbia, which one morning steamed straight for a given point in the ocean, it seemed, and to the surprise of her crew, when in the vicinity of Cape Henry, she sighted and made for what proved to be a most mysterious derelict. She was in good trim, without leak or injury, but there was no living soul aboard of her or in sight. The story goes she bore the name Ravenna.

A little later and two powerful navy tugs, the Narkeeta and the Nina, steamed up the bay with a clipper built ship flying the American flag and bearing the name Scipio. She was supposed to be in ballast, but that ballast was very carefully handled, as carefully as had been the ballast put on board the Ravenna at Antwerp, and it was taken to the arsenal. Gossips do say that some of those guns that England had and some of the powder that America needed so badly just at that time found their way across the Atlantic and fell into our hands in good season. Light on the mystery has been shed recently. When war was declared, the New Orleans, in England, from Brazil, had to leave her English port, and the Duchess of Marlborough, who was Consuelo Vanderbilt, became aroused to action, so the story goes, to aid the United States. She planned, with the approval of her husband, and interested Mrs. Chamberlain and Mrs. Curzon in the movement. The Countess de Castellane is said to have joined the compact later on.

They bought the Ravenna outright, it is asserted, and loaded her down not only with projectiles and ammunition, but with some of the guns which the New Orleans had not had time to mount before sailing. One morning the cruiser Columbia, whether by accident or design has not been officially stated, picked up the Ravenna a short distance off

A woman who takes chances with her health is simply gambling with the Black Devil of Disease. If she has any weakness or derangement of the delicate organism of her sex, to rely upon an unskilled, inexperienced, general practitioner is to risk her health upon a gambler's hazard. Her only real safety is in the careful well-digested advice of a physician who has had wide, special experience in diseases of this particular class.

The chief consulting physician of the famous Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. R. V. Pierce, has devoted thirty years of special study and practice to the weaknesses and diseases peculiar to women. His grand medicine, the "Favorite Prescription," has done more to restore perfect health and strength to women than any other medicine. It is the only proprietary medicine devised for this purpose by an educated, skilled specialist in woman's peculiar ailments.

A woman writing to Dr. Pierce regarding herself may feel absolute assurance of receiving, free of charge, the best professional advice by means of which the most obstinate of these delicate troubles may be promptly relieved and permanently cured.

Barbra A. Mudd, of Indian Creek, Monroe Co., Mo., writes: "I am very thankful for what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription did for me. I was all broke down from nervous prostration, but since taking this medicine I have had more relief than from all the doctors. Your 'Favorite Prescription' did me a world of good."

No fuss about it. What is it? Why, Doan's Kidney Pills! The little Kidney Wonder-Workers. What will they do?

Read what a citizen says: Mrs. A. Seagriff, No. 152 High street, East End, says: "I had a severe attack of kidney disease over a year ago which confined me to my bed for about three months. It affected my entire system and while I was able to be about I never got completely rid of it. I suffered almost constantly with a dull, heavy pain across the loins; if I sat for any length of time, or did anything that brought me into a stooping position and attempted to rise, there would be a sharp shooting pain in the small of my back that felt as if a knife or other sharp instrument had pierced me. I could not sleep when I went to bed, expecting to get rest. I was often robbed of it by nervousness and pain in my back. I have risen unrefreshed and more tired and worn out than I was when I retired. I had taken so much medicine without being cured that I was discouraged. I belong to the Daughters of Liberty and the Maccabees and notified them to drop me, but they refused to do so; this made me more determined than ever to get well, as I did not want to be a burden to them. Doan's Kidney Pills presented themselves in the form of a newspaper account. I got some at the W. & W. Pharmacy. They proved to be the proper remedy for me. Their mild and gentle influence gradually reduced the pain in my back and strengthened the weakness. All the symptoms having disappeared, I rested well at night and gained in strength and weight every day. Of course I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills; it would not be right to refuse to, for the benefit of other sufferers."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name, Doan's and take no other.

Cape Henry. It was singular that the cruiser should have been there, and more so that the Ravenna had not a single man aboard. Comment is unnecessary, but the lifeboats were missing and the crew has never been heard of and probably never will be. In other words, the Columbia found it convenient to board the Ravenna and find what she could find. She found just the sort of ammunition that the New Orleans had needed. The Ravenna, under her regular flag, is expected to reappear in the oriental trade in a little while, provided she is repurchased.—Chicago Times-Herald.

J. J. Purinton Goes Into Council For More Water.

IT WILL LIKELY BE GIVEN

Sewers Condemned a Year Ago Cause the Board of Health to Rise in Its Wrath. Long Time Residents Have an Anniversary—All the News.

Council met last night with all members present except Isaiah James.

The mayor's report, showing the receipts for the month, and the report of the water works trustees, were read and filed. Bills were reported by the finance committee, which amounted to $1,076.51. These bills were ordered paid, and as there was lacking $450 of this amount in the treasury, a resolution was introduced, authorizing the borrowing of that sum at a rate of interest not to exceed 6 per cent., to be again replaced from the general and road fund of the next tax collections.

E. J. Miller, a civil engineer from Wheeling, showed council plans for sewerage, grade and all complete. Council was interested, and when some one inquired the price it was given as $350. The old question of the probable cost of sewerage the town again came up and on being asked his opinion of an estimate Mr. Miller dryly replied that he should say it would not take less than $10,000 or more than $100,000. This reply was highly gratifying to the faction that have always insisted that plans must be drawn and an estimate made before the citizen be asked to vote on bonding the city. While the economical members hold that to pay out several hundred dollars before we know that the people want the town sewerage is not good policy.

A resolution was now introduced and under suspension passed. That the mayor be instructed to give notice that on November 8 the people be asked to vote on bonding the city for $75,000 for sewerage purposes.

A resolution was also introduced condemning certain lands belonging to 20 persons to form an alley 20 feet in width and extending from Fourth to Eleventh streets. It is understood that this will be the route of the proposed switch that the railroad has agreed to put in.

The board of health explained that two sewers had been condemned, and if the nuisances were not abated the board would take action and charge it to the city.

J. J. Purinton, for the new pottery, asked for an extension of water mains for fire protection, and Cooper, Goetz and Minor were appointed to confer with the water commissioners.

Council will meet again October 5.

Old Residents.

Thirty-five years ago today Mr. and Mrs. D. Putt were married.

All the years since have been passed in Wellsville. Ten children have come to their home during that time—seven daughters and three sons. All of whom are living. Half of that number are married. The greater number of the years Mr. Putt has been in the employ of the Cleveland and Pittsburgh railroad. He now occupies a responsible position, as operator at the upper depot. No deaths occurring for a period of 35 years in a family is most unusual, and added to that the fact that in all that time the family have lived within a few blocks of their present residence, 315 Broadway, is still more unusual.

PRESERVING MEATS.

A New Method Discovered by a Danish Zoologist.

A new method of preserving freshly killed meats has been discovered by the Danish zoologist, August Fjelstrup, already well known through his method of condensing milk without the use of sugar. The system has stood a remarkably hard three months' test at the Odense (Danish) company's slaughter houses in a very satisfactory manner. The method in itself is extremely simple and might be of great service for the troops in the tropics (the writer having had considerable experience in trying to keep meat in Cuba), and the attention of the war department has been called to the subject.

The animal to be used is first shot or stunned by a shot from a revolver (loaded with small slugs) in the forehead in such a way as not to injure the brain proper. As the animal drops senseless an assistant cuts down over the heart, opens a ventricle and allows all the blood to flow out, the theory of this being that the decomposing of the blood is almost entirely responsible for the quick putrefaction of fresh meats. Immediately thereafter a briny solution made of coarse or fine salt, more or less strong, according to length of time meat is to be kept, is injected by means of a powerful syringe through the other ventricle into the veins of the body. The whole process takes only a few minutes, and the beef is ready for use and can be cut up at once. This method has been examined and very favorably reported on by the general councils at Odense and Aarhus and also by many experts.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Home Again.

At last it sounds. The phrase we longed to hear
Is brave and glad in the triumphant cheer,
But tenderest when a weary one may rest
At last with those who know and love him best.

The fleeting years bid memory efface
Life's crude and cruel lines. In softened grace
The picture, lit by hope instead of pain,
Shines, as our boys repeat it, "Home again."

And we, who could but watch the empty chair
And pray for the one whose place was waiting there,
Found in the old time haunts so sad a change
That places most familiar grew most strange.

We, who were lingerers from the battle scene,
With step grown lighter and with pulses keen,
Like wanderers hear the welcoming refrain,
For we, with you, at last are "Home again."

The determination of the administration to protect Americans in China shows that a vigorous foreign policy, that which Mr. Cleveland discussed and never used, has at last been inaugurated.

The Republicans of East Liverpool
 should not forget that it is their party and its principles which they are called upon to support at the coming election.
 What could they expect to gain by voting for a Democrat? Absolutely nothing. His ballot would ever be cast against the rate of pay for which they exchange their labor and their intelligence.

STREET LOAFING.

The complaint comes again that crowds of men and boys are permitted
 by the police to congregate on street
 corners in the business section of the city, and make life a burden for every woman who is compelled to walk by them. Chief Johnson should call the attention of his officers at once, and if they do their duty the practice will cease. There is no excuse for it. East Liverpool is not a country village, nor has it one store where the population
 gather in the evening to discuss affairs
 of state and whittle store boxes, yet that
 is the impression gathered by the stranger as he attempts to force his way through a crowd. The ordinance should be enforced.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

The people of East Liverpool expect
 the board of education to conduct its meetings with decorum. That is no place for the venting of any petty spite,
 nor should any member attempt it. If he has a grievance let that grievance be stated in a manly, straightforward manner, giving the board an opportunity to decide on its merits, instead of seizing
 every opportunity to create dissension
 and delay the transaction of public business. They were not elected for that purpose. Their constituents do not expect them to bring their personal matters to a place where the affairs of the community are for consideration. The practice cannot be too severely censured.
 If these members cannot confine themselves to public business let them give way to men who can.

SILENTLY CROSSED RED RIVER

Got Another Train on the Opposite Shore,
 and in 24 Hours Were Safe in St. Louis.
 Experience of a Liverpool Traveler With Shot Gun Protection.

There is one among the travelers of East Liverpool who will not go south
 until the last vestige of yellow fever
 has passed into oblivion, and the men
 who guard state and county boundary lines with well loaded shot guns have laid down the weapons of war and taken up the implements of peace. He says so, and he ought to know. He was in that section of country recently.

The gentleman's name will not be given for reasons which will suggest themselves to the reader very soon.
 Principally, however, because it might embroil not only himself but two other faithful travelers and an officer of the Texas state board of health, for be it known they are very strict when any man, northern or southern, makes bold
 to run the yellow fever quarantine.

It happened in this way. The Liverpool traveler and the yellow fever were in New Orleans at the same time. One had been there only a few days while the other had been growing and fattening in the heaps of festering filth under a boiling sun. One wanted to get away because his business was done, the other wanted to leave the city in order that its long bony hand might be stretched over
 the plains of Texas and more helpless unfortunates might bow to its will as
 the agent of grim, awful death.

The traveler had not been exposed to
 the fever, and one day he left the Crescent city with its gay but frightened people far in the wake, his course being measured toward the boundry of Texas.
 They talked about it that day in the sleeper, and one pompous scion of wealth, the richest man in the boundary town, ventured the opinion that he would not be disturbed by quarantine officers, and seemed to gather some amusement from the
 fact that three northern boys were growing uncomfortable. They stood it for a time, but soon the shriek of a newsboy
 at a wayside station announced the presence of important news. With an eagerness born of desperation everybody bought a paper and learned that the news of the fever at New Orleans had traveled to Texas and the frontier was guarded by the strongest shot gun policy known in many years. Then Mr. Richman's jaw began to sink, and the northern boys began to wonder how they were to get out of a very nasty scrape.

The train, they knew, would be held
 up at the frontier, and after the board
 of health officers had sung their doleful song they would be tied up for at least ten days until the time of suspicion had passed.

The program was carried out—in part.
 The engineer was held up in true western style at the edge of town, and while armed and desperate men held the passengers in check, the conductor was informed he could go no farther. The health officer soon appeared, and the northern boys noticed that he had a kindly face, while old moneybags sank into the hot cushions of his seat and
 swore softly under his breath at a condition where his money was worth no
 more than water.

Not so with the Liverpool boy. He gained permission to send a telegram,
 and going to the junction office nearby
 wired his woes to a high official of Texas. In a short time the answer came. Then he had a talk with the captain of the shotgun guard, and later communicated something to his northern friends. They all laughed, and proceeded to make themselves as comfortable as possible.

That night they stole silently from
 the sleeper, after consulting their watches many times, and crouching low
 ran along the side of the train until the last car was reached. There they found a closed carriage, and jumping in were driven rapidly to the bank of the Red river. There a skiff was in waiting,
 and while they rowed across the muddy stream they could see a brilliantly lighted train crossing the bridge from Shreveport, whose borders they had so recently left. Once on the other side they were safe, and every man of
 them heaved a great sigh of relief as he boarded the sleeper after the big puffing engine had come to a standstill. The plans of the Liverpool boy had been successful, his telegram had worked on the sympathies of the Texan official who saw the utter uselessness of quarantining men who had never been in the yellow fever district, and his order had
 been obeyed to the letter, the kindly faced doctor doing the rest.

 East Liverpool boy in St. Louis.

TWO GAMES.

The New Castle Team Will Play in This Place.

The New Castle interstate base ball team spent last night in this city, and left today for Toronto where they will play ball this afternoon. They will return this evening and meet the local team Wednesday and Thursday.

Manager Jack Lytle is well known in club when they defeated the Crookery Cities for the local championship several years ago. Another local favorite with

 New Castle is Bobby Cargo, who this season played short for the Canandaigua club of the New York league. The home team will be materially strengthened by the presence of George Carey on first base, and good games may be expected.

Captain White called upon Secretary Long yesterday to pay in respects preparatory to proceeding to San Francisco to take command of the Philadelphia, flagship of the Pacific station.

The special naval board, headed by Admiral Sigsbee, which is considering the promotion of officers for gallantry during the war, called in a body upon Secretary Long and had a conference with respect to the work of that board.

The president has appointed Dr. David J.
 Hill of Rochester, N. Y., first assistant secretary of state, to succeed John Bassett Moore, resigned.

At yesterday's session of the courtmartial trial of Rev. Joseph P. McIntyre, of the battleship Oregon, at Denver, the chaplain went on the stand in his own defense. His testimony is intended to establish a plea of irresponsibility for his utterances on the occasion.

The insane wife of Joseph Clothier, a farmer of St. Severin, near Montreal, killed her four children Monday by cutting their throats.

Chief of Police Lees, of San Francisco, turned the new Botkin papers over to Gov.

urnor Budd yesterday. His excellency asked for 24 hours in which to examine them.

The Rev. Jabez Fox, who was well known in the west in the slavery agitation prior to the war, died at Washington at an advanced age.

The bodies of James McNeish, Jr., and Frank C. Morse, young men of Chelsea, Mass., were found in a lake near Merry pond yesterday.
 They had been missing for a week, having started on a hunting trip in a canoe which later was found.

Board of Education Have Differences

GROWING OUT OF TECHNICALITIES

One Question Settled by the Board Deciding to Hold Regular Meetings Every Two Weeks—Miss Andrews and Professor Laughlin Elected.

The board of education met in regular session in the directors' room of the Central building last evening. The meeting, which was started at 8:20 o'clock was attended by Members Vodrey, Norris, Peach, Fisher, Murphy, Williams and Hill.

The meeting was opened with scripture reading and prayer by Superintendent Rayman.

Mr. Fisher, as a committee of the East End schools, reported that he had secured a Mr. Wolf to act as janitor of the Helana building at a salary of $5.50 a month.

Clerk Norris presented an opinion of the city solicitor of the special meeting held the last of August. The opinion was lengthy, and the last paragraph read as follows: "From the question as submitted to me, and the law as I find it, I must conclude that the meeting was illegal, one member not being personally notified, no written notice being left at his residence or usual place of business."

It will be remembered that Mr. Peach was the member who was not notified legally. He was also out of the city. After the opinion had been read Mr. Murphy stated that, in order to get down to business, he suggested that the meetings be held regularly every two weeks. The board thought likewise, and then Mr. Murphy moved that Miss Andrews be elected to teach in the primary department of the Third street school. Mr. Fisher seconded the motion and Mr. Peach said: "I do not think Miss Andrews' certificate is regular."

"Just look, that paper is not even signed by the clerk of the board of examiners, the grades are not specified, and last of all no per cent is given to the studies in which she was examined," remarked Dr. Williams.

"Better go see the city solicitor," suggested Mr. Hill.

"I think we had better go out and play marbles," responded Mr. Murphy.

When the discussion had quieted somewhat Members Peach, Hill and Williams stated that they would vote for Miss Andrews whenever a proper certificate was presented, and that it was not a personal matter at all.

"This trouble is all foolishness and nothing more," said Mr. Murphy.

A few remarks from Clerk Norris were as follows: "I am not going to enter into any long talk on this matter, but as I am a member of the board, I am going to enjoy my rights, and what is more, if I were so minded I would tell you that the term of the board of examiners expired on August 31. This is caused by law and not by technicalities. I know nothing of Miss Andrews except that she is now teaching in our schools and has an excellent record."

Mr. Murphy said that Miss Andrews was hired by the board, and left a good position in Pittsburg to come here. "I fully believe that she could get back at the board through the courts."

The roll call showed a vote of 3 to 4 against the employment of Miss Andrews.

Mr. Murphy moved Professor Laughlin be elected musical instructor, at a salary of $60 a month. Mr. Peach amended that the matter be laid over until the next meeting and give the musical people at home a chance. The vote on the amendment was lost.

Mr. Hill then read a few paragraphs from the laws, and after looking at Mr. Laughlin's certificate said: "I am afraid that is not valid."

The motion was lost by a vote of 4 to 3.

Professor Rayman talked a short while upon the work being done in the schools. A proclamation from Governor Bushnell was read to the board. It suggested that October 19 be set aside from routine school work. The day is to be known as La Fayette day, and money be collected for the purpose of erecting a monument over the grave of La Fayette in a cemetery in Paris in 1900. All the schools in the land will do the same thing the same day. The day will be observed here.

Mr. Peach asked that, at the next meeting, before the teachers are paid, a pay roll be presented to the board. It will be done.

A representative of the Ohio Valley Gas company was present, and stated that if the board would use gas and the supply gave out, the company would reimburse the board in the way of paying the bill of filling up the furnaces. The proposition was accepted.

A motion to secure a teacher for a new room in the brick building in East End was carried. Miss Lowrey was elected to the position. She is now acting as a substitute. She will receive a salary of $30 a month.

Professor Rayman asked President Vodrey if Mr. Laughlin and Miss Andrews were to continue their work, but that gentleman stated he did not know.

Mr. Murphy then moved that Mr. Laughlin be elected musical instructor, but Mr. Peach stated that he did not think that Mr. Laughlin gave enough time to the course. Mr. Hill talked likewise, but Superintendent Rayman told the board how much time was devoted to music, so the matter was dropped by a vote being taken in Mr. Laughlin's favor.

Miss Andrews was once more elected, provided she furnished a proper certificate to the clerk of the board.

The report of the committee on the course of study was received. The report was discussed at length by Doctor Williams. He did not know what was being done in the various rooms until he was advised by Superintendent Rayman.

The meeting then adjourned.

The Police Made Two Arrests This Afternoon.

This afternoon Chief Johnson and Officer Whan arrested George Stewart, of Smith's Ferry, and David Gourley, of this city. Both men are now in jail charged with being suspicious persons. An investigation is being made, and when this is completed a specific charge will be filed against them or they will be released.

For several days two men have been calling at the residences of people living in the vicinity of College, Robinson and Walnut streets, and asking for the loan of a hatchet, wrench, chisel or like articles. They claimed they had a wagon they wished to repair around the corner, and the tools would be returned to their owner within a short time. In some places they were successful in obtaining a loan, but they never returned the articles.

When the men had a large lot of tools they either sold or traded them for liquor.

Yesterday the officials were furnished a description of the men, and since that time a diligent search has been made. The ones who were arrested this afternoon were caught in the vicinity of Faulk's mill and when approached by the officers started to run away, but were finally captured. The men were drunk and would not say any thing of their actions.

The Famous Leetonia Mayoralty Case, In Which the Greenamyers Are Involved, Will Have Another Hearing In Probate. Circuit Court Decisions.

LISBON, Oct. 4.—[Special]—The circuit judges gave out decisions in the cases brought before them today.

In the case of Anne Connors and others plaintiff in error against Louisa Patterson, the decision of common pleas was affirmed. Action was brought by Louisa Patterson to recover possession of land between lots 45-6 in Wellsville. The court said the section line was the fence east of lot 45, and the case would be reversed on the evidence, but the evidence as it came to circuit court was not understandable without the plats presented to the jury. Judge Burrows delivered the opinion.

John Matthews against Mary Matthews was brought by John to reverse the decision of lower courts in admitting a will to probate. One witness said he saw the testator sign the instrument, but did not acknowledge it as his will. On this ground John objected to the will to probate. The will was admitted, exceptions taken, and common pleas called to decide. There the judgment was affirmed. Coming to circuit, the court held that the testator must acknowledge his signature and the instrument to be his will. Judgment of the lower courts was reversed, and the case remanded to probate with instructions to reject the probate of the will.

The case of East Liverpool against William Hayes was brought by the city to reverse a judgment of $5,000 obtained against it by Hayes for causing, by negligence, the death of Mrs. Hayes, who was killed by city horses two years ago last spring. The city claimed two grounds of error.

First—That the petition does not state facts sufficient to constitute grounds of action. Second—That there was error in the charge of the court.

The circuit court was of the opinion that sufficient facts were stated, but found error in the charge of the lower court. Therefore the judgment was reversed and a new trial ordered. Judge Laubie delivered the opinion.

The case of J. A. Greenamyer against J. S. Greenamyer, the Leetonia mayoralty contest, was tried on waste of evidence. Seven ballots had been thrown out by the judges, four in the north precinct and five in the south. That elected J. A. Greenamyer by one vote. Circuit found three votes in the north were cast for J. S. Greenamyer and one for John, and on that basis Joshua would be elected. That is how the probate court decided. But the probate had rejected five in the south, three of them properly. Two, however, should not have been rejected, as they showed the intention of the voter to vote for John A. Greenamyer, electing him by one vote. The claim made by John that probate court had no authority to hear it a second time was found to be without cause. Error was found in the proceedings in probate, and the case remanded for trial.

MUMMY PICTURES.

The Latest Fad in Photography For Society Women.

Society often goes out of its way to obtain a fresh sensation. The latest craze, which was inaugurated by Mrs. James P. Kernochan of New York on her return from abroad, is to pose for one's photograph in a mummy frame. This startling fancy originated in Cairo, Egypt, in which place Mrs. Kernochan spent last winter.

To obtain a mummy case in Cairo is a comparatively easy matter. The enterprising photographer there keeps one in stock for his American patrons. The picture is taken in this way: The subject steps into the case, which is placed on end, and the lid is then closed, leaving an opening just large enough for the face. It is a gruesome idea, but a popular one. The mummy pictures are considered graceful and appropriate souvenirs of a trip to Egypt to present on returning to the friends at home.

The fad has attained such instant popularity, however, that many persons are not waiting for a tour of the east in order to see a picture of their own faces peering out at them from a mummy case. New York photographers prepare a picture of a mummy case and simply insert the face of the person desirous of obtaining such a unique photograph.

It is whispered that a number of these weird photographs are to circulate on All Halloween, when the ghostly and the ghastly are always in demand. The girls are already finding amusement in replying to requests from amorous swains for their photographs by presenting them with a mummy picture. Bets and philopenas are also canceled in this fashion. The feelings of the lover may be imagined when he is unexpectedly confronted with the features of his beloved enshrouded in the antique habiliments of death.

Many people think that the idea is too morbid to be encouraged. The mummy case is too suggestive of a coffin to be entirely pleasant. However, this weird fancy is desirable at present, and for its little day the mummy picture promises to be a popular fad.—New York World.

A VERY WARM SESSION

One Question Settled by the Board Deciding to Hold Regular Meetings Every Two Weeks—Miss Andrews and Professor Laughlin Elected.

The board of education met in regular session in the directors' room of the Central building last evening. The meeting, which was started at 8:20 o'clock, was attended by Members Vodrey, Norris, Peach, Fisher, Murphy, Williams and Hill.

The meeting was opened with scripture reading and prayer by Superintendent Rayman.

Mr. Fisher, as a committee of the East End schools, reported that he had secured a Mr. Wolf to act as janitor of the Helana building at a salary of $5.50 a month.

Clerk Norris presented an opinion of the city solicitor of the special meeting held the last of August. WILL ARRIVE HERE THIS WEEK

One Matter Connected With East End Fire Station Quickly Settled When Chief Morley and Councilman Cain Examined the Matter.

The new apparatus for the East End fire station has at last been purchased, and it consists of a combination hose and ladder wagon.

At the last meeting of council the fire committee recommended that an Akron hose wagon be purchased, at a cost of $165, and stated that the guards for the ladders could be put on at a slight cost, the wagon complete not costing more than $200. Council ordered the committee to have the wagon sent here on approval, but it was afterwards deemed best to go to Akron and view the wagon, and the latter part of last week Mr. Cain and Fire Chief Morley went to Akron and after looking at the wagon it was purchased and will be here in a few days.

The wagon is built very much like the wagon at the central station, but is lighter and will be just the thing for the East End department.

The fire committee will meet some evening this week for the purpose of discussing plans of purchasing horses for the department and selecting a fireman. The result of their deliberations will be recommended to the next meeting of council with the request that they act at once.

NO MEETING.

Finance Committee and Trustees Did Not Get Together.

The meeting of finance committee of council, to have been held last evening for the purpose of having a settlement with the water works trustees, failed to materialize.

The only members of the committee present were Messrs. Marshall, Cain and Peach, and after spending some time at city hall they decided to go home. Another meeting will be called this week.

THE RECEPTION

To Be Given by the Elks to Company E Members.

The reception to be given by the Elks tomorrow evening in honor of their members who served in Company E promises to be one of the most pleasant affairs of the season.

An elaborate program has been prepared, and the banquet will be one of the finest ever served in the city.

THE ROVERS

Will Begin Practice Without Unnecessary Delay.

The Rovers met last evening and held a very enthusiastic meeting.

It was decided to begin practice at once, and several new players were signed. The election of officers was postponed for one week, and A. V. Gilbert was selected as a delegate to the league meeting to be held in Pittsburgh, Oct. 18.

Cheap Trips.

Persons contemplating business or pleasure trips to the northwest, west or southwest may arrange for an enjoyable journey at low fare by communicating with J. K. Dillon, district passenger agent of the Pennsylvania lines, No. 360 Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh. He represents the short lines to Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville and Cincinnati, the gateways to the northwest, west and southwest. Daily through train service from Pittsburgh, and from western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio points. The Pennsylvania is the only system of railways having a double route between Pittsburgh and Chicago. Tell Mr. Dillon where you wish to go, and he will cheerfully furnish full information about special low rates and quick through time.

Baseball Points.

McNicol played third base for Toronto Saturday, and had three putouts and two errors.

Mercer yesterday had one hit and two putouts.

Gaston, who a few years ago pitched for the Scio college team in this city, has been signed by Brooklyn.

Only Cares For the Living.

Sanitary Officer Burgess is busy collecting the birth reports of the physicians for the month ending Oct. 1. The officer does not look after the death reports any more, and they are now filed with the health officer.

LOVE IN CUBAN CAPITAL.

Senoritas in Havana Are Hedged About With Conventionalities.

The residents of Havana are taking up the study of the English language. The Spanish residents are particularly anxious to learn to speak the tongue, which they believe will supersede the Castilian in Cuba. Young girls rapidly learn, the first word generally being "goodby." American gallants find it a little puzzling to be accosted on the street by beautiful girls who utter these words in a tone impossible to describe, but falling pleasantly on the ear of the man from the States. The latter is apt to think it means more than it does, and it is safe to caution the incoming young man that no one necessarily desires a flirtation with him because he is saluted in American style. It is merely an evidence of good will toward a nation of which the recipient happens to be a representative. It is best to return the salutation in kind and let it go at that.

For the guidance of those who shortly will come from the great republic to seek their fortunes in the West Indies, a short description of the modus of love-making in the Antilles would not be amiss. The Spanish or Cuban lover follows the idol of his affection, at first, from afar off. Subsequently, with some relative of his or hers, he calls. But he is never alone with his love. There is always an elder sister, the mother or a female companion of age, to look after the proprieties. How they manage it only the Castilian knows. The North American generally finds the prospect an insurmountable barrier.

After the proper time spent in wooing, the parents of the two most concerned settle all matters, and the young people are married forthwith. Little time is spent in the courtship. The eyes of the lover tell it all. Until the marriage no man ever touches the hand of his mistress, and to kiss her would be the height of folly. The woman would thereafter be marked and so fallen in the estimation of all good persons that she would be avoided by them, while the man would cease to care for her. Of course this is only true of the best families; with others there is more latitude, as is the case the world over.—Cor. New York Press.

PAINFUL PIPE JAW.

New Disease to Which Invertebrate Pipe Smokers Are Succumbing.

"What is the matter with you?" asked one young man of another who was holding his cheek in his hand and groaning audibly.

"Pipe jaw," returned the youth dolefully.

"Pipe jaw?" "Yes, that's it. Never heard of it? Well, it's a genuine affliction and prevalent just at present. No; it isn't anything like a pipe face. I'll tell you how it is contracted. Fellows who smoke pipes a great deal often get into the habit of biting the stem. If they are students or men who smoke at their desk work, they press the stem tightly between the teeth, thus causing the jaws to spread ever so slightly. This in turn affects the hinge of the jaw, so that every time a man with the pipe jaw distends his jaws the bones of the hinge grind and crack, producing a noise which may be plainly heard five feet away. It also causes pain at times, especially early in the morning, after a good long bout with the pipe the night before.

"When I first contracted the trouble, I did not know what was the matter with me, but I met a number of the fellows, who complained of similar distress, and on comparing notes we discovered that it all came from the incessant use of the pipe and biting on the stem. So we began calling it pipe jaw, and on mentioning the subject to a leading New York physician he agreed with us that pipe jaw was the most appropriate descriptive name that could be applied to an increasing ailment which in time no doubt will have a recognized department in therapeutics."—New York Herald.

Klondike Pleasantries.

Tim says that one day he was walking down the main street of Dawson City when he met Emma Kelly, the Topeka girl, and said, "Miss Kelly, your nose is frozen." Miss Kelly looked at him a moment and then replied, "Well, sir, I think yours is too." And so it was. Connelly says he saw the remains of two men who had been buried at Forty Mile five years ago, and the bodies were frozen as stiff as on the day of the funeral.—Lacrosse (Kan.) Republican.

The Passing of the Rough Rider.

The herd has been corralled and shipped to Spain.

Much thanks to you, rough rider! You've rounded 'em up, and we shan't complain.

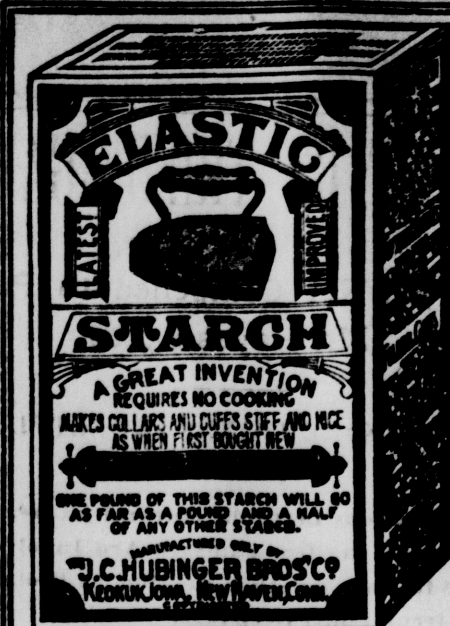

If, after your months in the sun and rain, You elect to give your pent feelings rein— Whoop it up, rough rider!

Fill up and be frisky on coffin paint If you like, rough rider; We never supposed that your brand was saint.

We wanted a killer with nary taint Of bashful forefinger, and none there ain't In you, rough rider!

Remember the warning your colonel spoke— You know him, rough rider— "For a week or two you're a damned fine bloke; Then if you stay drunk you're a no 'count soak!"

Now, while you're a hero, old heart of oak, Farewell, rough rider!

First Captures Under the Curfew Law.

ONE ESCAPED PUNISHMENT

Because He Was Beyond the Age Prescribed by Law, and the Others Were Released After a Lecture—Brady and Long Paid Their Assessments.

Mayor Bough this morning had but a very small amount of business to transact, and as a result matters in police court were very quiet.

Last night as Officers Whan and Grim were walking by the entrance to the opera house they found a crowd of boys loitering on the door step. As it was after 9 o'clock three of them could not give good excuses for being there and consequently they were taken to jail where they were allowed to remain for a while. This morning the mayor heard their stories and released them without assessing a fine.

One of the boys was over 16 years, and when he proved it no more questions were asked.

Samuel Long, who was fined $6.60 yesterday morning, was released last night. He paid his dues and departed.

William Brady called at city hall early last evening and entered a plea of guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct which was filed against him Sunday by Officer Grim. He was fined $6.60, which amount he paid and went away.

Alfred Heakin is expected to call at city hall this week and have his case settled.

As no date has been set for the hearing of the Reymann Brewing company's case the matter is resting.

There was a charge filed against an individual last night and this morning a warrant was issued for his arrest. The name of the party will not be made known until an arrest is made.

The police are still looking for the slick individual who stole a pocketbook Saturday evening. A clue has been furnished but as yet no arrest has been made.

THAT PAY ROLL.

Why Members of the School Board Would See It.

"To tell you the truth I think a good part of the meeting of the board of education last night was nonsense," said a member to the NEWS REVIEW this morning.

"I talked with another member and he thought it nothing short of disgusting. One thing I believe should be looked into carefully, and that is the desire of some members to see the payroll. There is a story back of it. Pressure was brought upon Professor Rayman to close the schools the day of the reception to Company E, for it was generally understood the whole town would join in honoring the boys in blue. He did not feel like taking the responsibility, and communicated with a number of members of the board. The result was a decision to give the children half a day. Now the object in bringing up the payroll is to see whether the teachers were paid for that time. As I understand they worked that time, Professor Rayman having called a general teachers' meeting for that purpose. I, personally, don't believe the city of East Liverpool should be so small."

If the gentleman's manner can be taken as an indication the matter will be heard of at the next session.

HISTORY OF FASHODA.

Capital of the Shilluk Country Where Marchand Is Established.

Fashoda, to which the attention of the world has been directed as the supposed point of establishment of a French expedition hostile to the purposes and plans of Great Britain in Central Africa, is the capital of the Shilluk country. In 1845 it was annexed by Egypt to the government of Khartum and was used as a place of transportation for political prisoners and galley slaves. "It is said," writes Gessi Pasha, who was governor of the Bahr-el-Ghazal under Gordon, in "Seven Years In the Sudan," "that any one sent to Fashoda never returns. The climate is unhealthy, the air pestilential, and it rarely happens that a condemned prisoner survives the effects of the privations of the place."

"When Gessi first visited Fashoda, he found no political prisoners there, but there were about 200 convicts working at the galleys. There were a few shops slenderly supplied with articles at a high price. These were for the most part kept by Greeks. The commandant of the place, Lieutenant Colonel Yussuf Bey, was then doing his best to improve the city, but with little success. At that time the surrounding territory yielded only a few hippopotamus hides and the officials and residents were chiefly occupied by the slave trade. Gessi soon made an end of this. At the instance of Gordon the descendant of the sultans of the Shilluks was made bey of Fashoda, with a high salary, and was specially charged to suppress slavery, from which his fellow tribesmen had suffered. The market, which formerly was full of slight huts, in which the Jelabba kept their slaves, was abolished, and slavery was publicly prohibited.

"After the fall of Lupton, who succeeded Gessi as governor, Fashoda, with the rest of the Bahr-el-Ghazal province, fell into the hands of the mahdists. According to Father Ohrwalder, Fashoda then became an important center of the cereal trade. The supplies of corn received from that town at one time saved Omdurman from absolute starvation. Up to 1889 Fashoda continued the supply, most of the native cultivators receiving in exchange glass beads, pieces of copper, iron, cowries and old Medjidie dollars. The khalifa subsequently dispatched Zeki Tummal and an army from Galabat to attack Fashoda and its people. The town and surrounding country were ravaged and ruined by this incursion."—New York Herald.

ENGLAND'S IRONCLADS.

What Would Become of Them if Disarmament Were Arranged.

A correspondent writes: "What shall we do with our ironclads?" is a question which it might be expected would rapidly follow the czar's recent intimation to the powers. It is at once curious and significant that the solution to the question should also come from Russia. Admiral Makaroff, it will be remembered, a few days ago announced his scheme for reaching the north pole by crashing his way through the pack ice in a couple of steam ice-breakers. With the requisite 10,000 horsepower he believes he could reach either the 'actual or the magnetic' in 12 days.

"If Admiral Makaroff's theory be valid, our ironclads could, considering their number and power (and here the muzzle loaders would be equally effective), with tolerable ease blow themselves a path to the pole. Briefly, the plan of action would be for the heavy battleships to approach the limit of solid ice and commence their work of blasting a passage by judicious ramming and the use of heavy shell. One battleship would follow another, passing forward relays of ammunition as required. Some of the lighter cruisers could form a base, just as in the Jackson-Harmsworth expedition. The scheme certainly opens up vistas of artillery display such as the world has never seen." It is very magnificent, but we are afraid it is not polar exploration.—London Chronicle.

BOUNDARY POSTS TUMBLE.

Iron Landmarks of Uncle Sam and Canada Need Repairing.

It is said that the iron posts which mark the international boundary line are falling down in all directions. Dr. R. Stanley Weir of Montreal spent some weeks during the summer in the Lake Memphremagog district, and, being impressed with this unfitness of things, sent this communication to Sir Wilfrid Laurier recently:

"During this summer I spent my vacation on the shores of Lake Memphremagog, a few miles from the boundary line. I observed that the iron posts which mark the boundary between the United States and Canada are, in almost every case, in a very bad state of repair. I saw a number of them at an angle of from 40 to 45 degrees, and if they are allowed to remain in their present condition it is only a question of a very few months when they will collapse entirely. It struck me as unworthy of the dignity of the two nations concerned that the boundary posts should be allowed to continue in so neglected a condition, and I respectfully call your attention to the matter, as it might possibly be provided for by the commission now sitting, or by other means that might occur to you."—New York Sun.

CHING'S GREAT LOVE.

PATNETIC STORY OF COLONEL CARROLL'S CHINESE VALET.

Remarkable Devotion and Strange End of a Young Celestial—He Mysteriously Disappears at San Juan After His Master's Death.

Among the dead and missing in the famous Sixth regular cavalry there is one name not mentioned in the reports—that of Ching, the Chinese valet de chambre of the late hero, Colonel R. N. Carroll, who fell in the San Juan fight. Despite the fact that Ching's name is not on record as one of the victims of the San Juan battle, nevertheless he should be included in all justice as a slight acknowledgment of a rare, dog-like faithfulness. Any officer or man connected with the Sixth will tell of the faithfulness and strange end of the loyal celestial. I have heard the story from one or two privates, but in the Hoffman House in New York the other night a big, brawny first lieutenant told me the details as far as known.

Colonel Carroll, who was intensely loved by his fellow officers and men alike, was a great traveler and took advantage of every opportunity to acquaint himself with the world whenever he took a well earned furlough. During one of his trips he picked up a bright Chinese boy and attached him to his service as a body servant. He was Ching and could give no other name.

When the colonel resided at Fort Scott, Ching was with him, his devoted slave. He anticipated every wish of his master, kept his clothes and accouterments in the pink of condition and always slept within easy call of the commander. Ching was very apt and soon developed into a remarkably fine cook. He invented and served up delectable feasts and luncheons which made it a desired event to be invited to poke one's legs beneath the colonel's board.

When the war broke out between the United States and Spain, Colonel Carroll was ordered at once, with his command, to Tampa. In his judgment the commander thought it wise to order Ching to remain behind at the post. The Mongolian said nothing, but he had the same look in his eyes that can be observed in a faithful hound who is injured by the master he loves.

When the Sixth reached Tampa, the colonel was dumfounded to see Ching toddle into his tent, smiling innocently, and without any explanation proceed to adjust his master's traps. Colonel Carroll could say nothing except, "Well, he's here, and it's useless to argue with him." Then came the orders to proceed at once to Cuba. This time, in his most stern manner and in his most impressive tones, Colonel Carroll ordered his Chinese menial to remain behind, under pain of his most dire displeasure "Alle light, me sabee," was the Celestial's reply.

In the hurry and bustle of embarking for the seat of war, the colonel lost sight of Ching and concluded that his orders were to be obeyed. He reckoned not upon the Chinese boy's faithfulness and affection. The transport was not out more than 24 hours before Ching, with his smile "childlike and bland," put in an appearance before the doughty colonel. He was a stowaway, having hidden himself in the hold during the excitement of the departure.

Colonel Carroll stormed and raved, but the smile never left the boy's face. He had accomplished his purpose and was happy. Finally the colonel saw a humorous side to the situation, especially as the officers of his staff laughingly told him he might as well try to lose his shadow as the pigtailed valet. Once in camp in Cuba Ching's usefulness was apparent. No officer's wants were better attended to than were those of Colonel Carroll. His meals were simply marvels, and the commander frankly admitted that he would be lost without Ching.

All went well until the fatal battle. As the cavalymen rushed into the fight, where the atmosphere teemed with singing Mauser bullets, Ching followed where he could see the well known and beloved figure of the colonel. Then came the fateful bullet which plowed its way through the breast of the brave warrior. As he fell the Chinaman, with tears streaming down his yellow features, appeared from some unnoticed place and pillowed his master's head on his bosom, while he tried to stanch the flow of blood. Red Cross assistants and his own men carried Colonel Carroll to the hospital, the Chinaman following, crying and bowed with grief.

It was soon apparent that the colonel had fought his last fight and that the brave spirit which had subdued the fierce red men was soon to pass away. Meanwhile Ching camped out at the entrance to the hospital tent. He would not be driven away. Every surgeon who came out felt his sleeve plucked and turned to hear the faltering question of the Celestial, "O'lonel Clallol, him glet well?"

For more than 24 hours the faithful servant kept at his post, until a surgeon, regarding him pityingly, told him that Colonel Carroll had just breathed his last. For a moment or two Ching stood like a statue. Then a huge sob shook his frame. Turning, he walked through lines of sympathetic soldiers, who in their own grief said, "The poor Chink's heart's broken, sure."

Straightaway past the sentries, into the underbrush and toward the enemy walked the desolate Chinese boy. He disappeared from sight and has never been seen since.—New York Herald.

CHING'S GREAT LOVE.

PATNETIC STORY OF COLONEL CARROLL'S CHINESE VALET.

Remarkable Devotion and Strange End of a Young Celestial—He Mysteriously Disappears at San Juan After His Master's Death.

Among the dead and missing in the famous Sixth regular cavalry there is one name not mentioned in the reports—that of Ching, the Chinese valet de chambre of the late hero, Colonel R. N. Carroll, who fell in the San Juan fight. Despite the fact that Ching's name is not on record as one of the victims of the San Juan battle, nevertheless he should be included in all justice as a slight acknowledgment of a rare, dog-like faithfulness. Any officer or man connected with the Sixth will tell of the faithfulness and strange end of the loyal celestial. I have heard the story from one or two privates, but in the Hoffman House in New York the other night a big, brawny first lieutenant told me the details as far as known.

Colonel Carroll, who was intensely loved by his fellow officers and men alike, was a great traveler and took advantage of every opportunity to acquaint himself with the world whenever he took a well earned furlough. During one of his trips he picked up a bright Chinese boy and attached him to his service as a body servant. He was Ching and could give no other name.

When the colonel resided at Fort Scott, Ching was with him, his devoted slave. He anticipated every wish of his master, kept his clothes and accoutrements in the pink of condition and always slept within easy call of the commander. Ching was very apt and soon developed into a remarkably fine cook. He invented and served up delectable feasts and luncheons which made it a desired event to be invited to poke one's legs beneath the colonel's board.

When the war broke out between the United States and Spain, Colonel Carroll was ordered at once, with his command, to Tampa. In his judgment the commander thought it wise to order Ching to remain behind at the post. The Mongolian said nothing, but he had the same look in his eyes that can be observed in a faithful hound who is injured by the master he loves.

When the Sixth reached Tampa, the colonel was dumfounded to see Ching toddle into his tent, smiling innocently, and without any explanation proceed to adjust his master's traps. Colonel Carroll could say nothing except, "Well, he's here, and it's useless to argue with him." Then came the orders to proceed at once to Cuba. This time, in his most stern manner and in his most impressive tones, Colonel Carroll ordered his Chinese menial to remain behind, under pain of his most dire displeasure. "Alle light, me

sabee," was the Celestial's reply.

In the hurry and bustle of embarking for the seat of war, the colonel lost sight of Ching and concluded that his orders were to be obeyed. He reckoned not upon the Chinese boy's faithfulness and affection. The transport was not out more than 24 hours before Ching, with his smile "childlike and bland," put in an appearance before the doughty colonel. He was a stowaway, having hidden himself in the hold during the excitement of the departure.

Colonel Carroll stormed and raved, but the smile never left the boy's face. He had accomplished his purpose and was happy. Finally the colonel saw a humorous side to the situation, especially as the officers of his staff laughingly told him he might as well try to lose his shadow as the pigtailed valet. Once in camp in Cuba Ching's usefulness was apparent. No officer's wants were better attended to than were those of Colonel Carroll. His meals were simply marvels, and the commander frankly admitted that he would be lost without Ching.

All went well until the fatal battle. As the cavalymen rushed into the fight, where the atmosphere teemed with singing Mauser bullets, Ching followed where he could see the well known and beloved figure of the colonel. Then came the fateful bullet which plowed its way through the breast of the brave warrior. As he fell the Chinaman, with tears streaming down his yellow features, appeared from some unnoticed place and pillowed his master's head on his bosom, while he tried to stanch the flow of blood. Red Cross assistants and his own men carried Colonel Carroll to the hospital, the Chinaman following, crying and bowed with grief.

It was soon apparent that the colonel had fought his last fight and that the brave spirit which had subdued the fierce red men was soon to pass away. Meanwhile Ching camped out at the entrance to the hospital tent. He would not be driven away. Every surgeon who came out felt his sleeve plucked and turned to hear the faltering question of the Celestial, "Colonel Clallol, him glet well?"

For more than 24 hours the faithful servant kept at his post, until a surgeon, regarding him pityingly, told him that Colonel Carroll had just breathed his last. For a moment or two Ching stood like a statue. Then a huge sob shook his frame. Turning, he walked through lines of sympathetic soldiers, who in their own grief said, "The poor Chink's heart's broken, sure."

Straightaway past the sentries, into the underbrush and toward the enemy walked the desolate Chinese boy. He disappeared from sight and has never been seen since.—New York Herald.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

William Erlanger was a Pittsburg visitor today.

Ed Mills, of Lisbon, is calling on friends in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Hill, of Third street, spent the day in Pittsburg.

The Sons of Veterans at their meeting tonight have several candidates to initiate.

Trades council will meet tomorrow evening. They have important business to transact.

The shoemakers union met last evening, but did nothing but transact routine business.

Mrs. J. H. Brookes and Mrs. Robert Martin will entertain Friday afternoon from 4 to 5:30 o'clock.

Robert Stewart, of Latona, Pa., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Ashbaugh, Seventh street.

The opening of Brunt's hall last evening was well attended, and dancing was indulged in until a late hour.

J. Berger, father of Olav Berger of freight office, spent yesterday in the city. He returned to the city this morning.

The live stock sale at the farm of Samuel Smith near Cannon's Mill today was well attended by people from this city.

The work of lowering the water mains in Avondale street has been completed, and the force are now at work in Lisbon street.

John O. Hanley will leave in the morning for Allegheny where he will resume his studies at the theological seminary.

Invitations have been extended for a reception to be given Thursday evening, at the home of R. Parker, in honor of Will Rollons.

The new cars to be placed on the street railway are expected to arrive in the very near future and will be fitted with trucks at once.

Word received from Corporal Miller, who is ill at his home in Cannon's Mill, states that he is not improving, and his condition is still serious.

The Liederkranz society last evening entertained a large number of friends at their rooms in Red Men's hall. Dancing was the amusement.

Manager Reark did not succeed in booking a football team for Thursday, and the first game of the season will not be played until next week.

The new flint mill in the East End is running steadily and to its capacity. The plant is complete in every detail, and is one of the best in the city.

The grocery clerks will meet this evening and final action will be taken as regard to the stores that are not living up to the early closing agreement.

Second street was given a thorough cleaning this morning. It is the first time this street has been cleaned for several weeks, and the improvement is very noticeable.

A letter received yesterday states that Private Ed Morley would not be able to be home for at least a month. He has been transferred from the hospital at Camp Wickoff to a New York hospital, and was scarcely able to endure the journey.

Martin Thornberry left this place yesterday for Tampa, Florida, where he will join Troop K, Third U. S. Cavalry, of which he is a member. There were a number of friends at the station to bid him farewell. He has been in the city several weeks spending his furlough.

There was an immense lot of baggage sent out from the Second street depot this morning. The train west arrived 33 minutes late, and the placing of the baggage in the car required 15 minutes. The train left the station at 9 o'clock, or 40 minutes behind time, but it arrived in Cleveland on time. More baggage was handled this morning than there has been at one time for several weeks.

4 Ways and Means Committee Appointed—Harvey to Manage the Affairs.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Senator James K. Jones, chairman of the national Democratic committee has appointed a ways and means committee consisting of ex-Governor William J. Stone of Missouri, ex Governor John P. Altgeld of Illinois, Senator William V. Allen of Nebraska and Senator Henry M. Teller of Colorado, and himself. The committee has appointed Mr. W. H. Harvey, author of "Coin's Financial School," as general manager of the committee in charge of its work.

In the letter addressed to Mr. Harvey appointing him general manager, the following expression is made:

"You will observe that the committee represents not only the Democratic party, but the allied forces that are working with it for the protection of the republic and free institutions, and it is in a spirit of harmony and true patriotism that we desire your assistance."

Senator Allen is the Populist representative of the committee and Senator Teller represents the Silver Republicans. The first work of the committee will be to raise money for prosecuting a steady methodical campaign.

MENACING FOREIGNERS.

Foreign Ministers Ask For Suppression of Outrages in China.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The Pekin correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, telegraphing by way of Shanghai, says:

"A mob is menacing foreigners. The wife of the Italian minister was attacked while on her way to church, and several Americans coming from the railway were wounded by stones. The foreign ministers have sent a collective note to the government asking for the suppression of these outrages and the punishment of the culprits."

Roosevelt Paid Taxes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The tax levied on Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's personal property at No. 674 Madison avenue, this city, was paid at the tax commissioner's office in the Stewart building yesterday. Payment was made by Mr. Douglass Robinson, brother-in-law of Colonel Roosevelt, acting on behalf of the latter. The amount was $1,005.

Henry George Declines.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Henry George has declined the nomination for governor on the ticket placed in the field by the Chicago platform Democrats, and the committee having authority to fill the vacancies nominated Henry M. McDonald, of the county of New York, for the place.

YELLOW FEVER SITUATION.

No Additional Cases Were Reported at Jackson—Many Leaving.

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 4.—The announcement of ten new cases of yellow fever in Jackson, Sunday, fell ominously upon the ears of the remaining citizens. No additional cases have been reported yesterday, but a number are under investigation, and before night the bulletin board undoubtedly will announce them genuine. In several parts of the city yellow flags mark the infected premises, adding to the feeling of uneasiness which to a great extent prevails.

There is no panic, but more of the people are leaving for northern points and soon there will be comparatively few white people here. Several of the state officials have already gone and more will leave, and with one or two exceptions the state house will be deserted.

Senator Allen is the Populist representative of the committee and Senator Teller represents the Silver Republicans. The first work of the committee will be to raise money for prosecuting a steady methodical campaign.

MENACING FOREIGNERS.

Foreign Ministers Ask For Suppression of Outrages in China.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The Pekin correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, telegraphing by way of Shanghai, says:

"A mob is menacing foreigners. The wife of the Italian minister was attacked while on her way to church, and several Americans coming from the railway were wounded by stones. The foreign ministers have sent a collective note to the government asking for the suppression of these outrages and the punishment of the culprits."

Roosevelt Paid Taxes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The tax levied on Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's personal property at No. 674 Madison avenue, this city, was paid at the tax commissioner's office in the Stewart building yesterday. Payment was made by Mr. Douglass Robinson, brother-in-law of Colonel Roosevelt, acting on behalf of the latter. The amount was $1,005.

Henry George Declines.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Henry George has declined the nomination for governor on the ticket placed in the field by the Chicago platform Democrats, and the committee having authority to fill the vacancies nominated Henry M. McDonald, of the county of New York, for the place.

YELLOW FEVER SITUATION.

No Additional Cases Were Reported at Jackson—Many Leaving.

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 4.—The announcement of ten new cases of yellow fever in Jackson, Sunday, fell ominously upon the ears of the remaining citizens. No additional cases have been reported yesterday, but a number are under investigation, and before night the bulletin board undoubtedly will announce them genuine. In several parts of the city yellow flags mark the infected premises, adding to the feeling of uneasiness which to a great extent prevails.

There is no panic, but more of the people are leaving for northern points and soon there will be comparatively few white people here. Several of the state officials have already gone and more will leave, and with one or two exceptions the state house will be deserted.

Nothing Like a Good Example.

China has recently discovered that a postoffice is a good institution and in the course of time may become acquainted with railroads and the trolley. Our example in the Philippines will be apt to keep the old empire interested.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

TO FORM A BIG TRUST.

Trying to Unite the Warship Building Interests.

WILL HAVE $200,000,000 CAPITAL.

Men of International Reputation in the Project—To Locate the Factories—Will Also Manufacture Armor Plate and Probably Make Guns.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 4.—One of the most gigantic projects for the combination of capital in the history of the country is being engineered in Cleveland. It is an attempt to unite the warship building interests and the armor plate and gunmaking interests of the world into one great syndicate, whose factories shall be located near Cleveland.

Men of international reputation in the financial and manufacturing world are in the deal. All summer foreigners of wealth and rank have been quietly visiting Cleveland. Their going and coming has been kept as mysterious as possible. When the Spanish-American war ended, all the world had learned that American had the best warships, armor plate and guns.

The attention of moneyed men had been called to the possibilities of immense profits, which might accrue to a company which should have a monopoly of these materials and from which every government in the world would be obliged to buy. Then the big financiers and manufacturers got their heads together. One Cleveland who is in the deal is said to be Colonel Myron T. Herrick, president of the Society for Savings. Another is Robert Wallace, president of the Cleveland Ship Building Company.

Dr. Gatling, the famous inventor of guns, has been here in conference with other men in the deal. Armstrong, the inventor of the gun, which bears his name, has also been in Cleveland. Andrew Carnegie is one of the chief men in the negotiations.

Robert Wallace is now in the west with several of the foreigners, who visited Cleveland. Before he returns he will stop in San Francisco, and the proprietors of the Union iron works, which built the famous battleship Oregon, will be approached as to whether they will go into the deal.

It is believed that every shipbuilding, gunmaking and armor plate making firm in the United States has been in the negotiations. The projectors claim they can raise a capital of $200,000,000.

A WARRANT FOR HIS ARREST.

Haldeman Charged With Murder of Ex-Senator Richardson.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 4.—Coroner Haerr swore out a warrant for the arrest of W. T. Haldeman on the charge of murdering ex-State Senator J. C. Richardson. The authorities in Chicago were telegraphed to arrest Haldeman, but up to midnight no word was received of Haldeman, who was seen in Chicago yesterday. Meantime the inquest proceeds with Harry Probasco, a brother-in-law of Haldeman, and a relative of ex-Senator and Secretary John Sherman, representing the defense. After the funeral today the son of Richardson and other members of the family will appear as witnesses.

Richardson and Haldeman were not only brothers-in-law, but closely associated in business, partners in real estate and other matters as well as in the Lockland paper mill.

Ohio Strikers Win a Victory.

BELLAIRE, Oct. 4.—The miners' strike at Dillonvale and Long Run has been settled, part of the men returned to work yesterday and others will go in today. Over 1,000 men were out. The settlement is a victory for the miners, as all points but one were gained by them. The eight-hour day, it is alleged, had been ignored by the operators.

Cause by Disappointment.

YOUNGSTOWN, Oct. 4.—General James L. Botsford is seriously ill at his home on Wick avenue and is not expected to recover. It is said that his health has given away under disappointment on account of being named inspector of volunteers when he had been led to build his hopes for something much better.

TOLEDO, Oct. 4.—Superintendent W. J. Parks of the Union elevator died at the hospital yesterday after suffering for three weeks with awful burns. He is the 14th victim of the Union elevator fire, which occurred Sept. 20.

QUAY GAVE BAIL

Ex-Senator and Other Officials Arrested at Philadelphia on Charges of Conspiracy.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—Warrants were issued yesterday for the arrest of United States Senator Quay, his son Richard R. Quay, ex-State Treasurer Haywood and Charles H. McKee, law partner of Lieutenant Governor Lyon. The charges allege conspiracy with

John S. Hopkins, former cashier of the wrecked People's bank, who committed suicide just before the bank's failure last March.

Senator Quay and his son surrendered themselves yesterday afternoon and were held in $5,000 bail each for a hearing next Thursday. The defendants are accused of unlawfully loaning public moneys and buying and selling stocks.

The affidavit of Detective Myers, upon which the issuance of the warrants was based, is as follows: State of Pennsylvania, city and county of Philadelphia, ss.

Charles F. Myers, being sworn according to law, doth depose and say that Matthew Stanley Quay, Benjamin J. Haywood, Richard R. Quay and Charles H. McKee, and other persons to this deponent unknown, did unlawfully combine, confederate, conspire and agree to and with each other and the said persons unknown, to use the public moneys of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania for their own use, and also did combine, confederate, conspire and agree to and with each other and divers persons to this deponent unknown, and to and with John S. Hopkins, deceased, formerly cashier of the People's bank of Philadelphia, a corporation duly created and existing under the laws of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to unlawfully buy and sell stocks; that is, shares of stock in divers corporations, and did unlawfully use and employ the moneys of the People's bank within the county of Philadelphia and within two years last past.

All which deponent upon information and belief says is true. And further deponent saith not.

Benjamin J. Haywood of Harrisburg, cashier for the state treasurer of Pennsylvania, is under arrest at the Paxton hotel in Omaha, where he was attending the exposition. He is in custody of a detective and will be sent back to Philadelphia in care of an officer.

ALARMING INCREASE.

Sick in Porto Rico Will Make It Necessary to Send Troops Home.

[Correspondence.]

PONCE, Porto Rico, Sept. 27.—It is the well grounded and almost unanimous opinion of the medical staff of the American army in Porto Rico that the condition of the volunteer forces here necessitates their removal north.

Sickness is increasing and has been increasing during the past two or three weeks at an alarming rate. Today the sick report shows over 2,700 in hospitals or in quarters out of a total command of 10,000 men; that is, over 25 per cent of the troops are on the sick list. This, however, does not mean that there is an effective strength of 7,500 men.

The soldiers discharged from the hospitals as fit for duty are in nine cases out of ten incapable of service and if ordered on duty are almost invariably back in the hospital within a few days. The medical officers have found that the convalescents do not and seemingly cannot recover their strength in this climate and for this reason they are being sent north as rapidly as possible, several hundred leaving every week.

READY TO MEET.

American Cuban Commission So Inform the Spanish.

HAVANA, Oct. 2.—(Delayed in transmission)—Lieutenants Wade and Marsh returned from Matanzas today. Their mission was in connection with the relief supplies brought on the steamer Comal. Ten thousand rations were asked for the Cuban camps and 30,000 were given.

Colonel Clous, secretary of the American commission, today advised General Parrado that the American commissioners were prepared to meet the Spanish commission, as requested by the Spaniards. General Parrado said he would order Secretary Gierrenta to arrange for the meeting, which, it is believed, will take place on Thursday next.

One Negro Returned.

WASHINGTON, Ind., Oct. 4.—Ed Meyers, one of the negroes run out of town Sunday night, has just returned. He was terribly beaten by the strikers and is in bad condition. An affidavit may be filed against a certain member of Company D, One Hundred and Fifty-Ninth Indiana, who was alleged to have been in the mob. Mrs. Steve Young, a negro, says this soldier insulted her while he held a gun in her face. All was quiet at a late hour last night.

No Additional Sick on Ogdam.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Oct. 4.—General Lawton referred the question of sending more soldiers back to New York by the transport Ogdam to the principal military officials and it was decided that with the exception of some officers no additional troops should be sent by the Ogdam.

Will Ignore Vote on Prohibition.

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—Judging from present returns on the prohibition vote, barely one-fourth of those entitled to vote gave expression to their opinions on Thursday last. As a consequence it is learned that the government will ignore the whole proceeding.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT.

Peace Commission Hold an Important Session.

HAVE REACHED THE MAIN POINT.

Believed to Be the Question Concerning the Philippines—Adjourned Until Friday—Their Work May Be Finished in About a Month.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—Yesterday's session of the American and Spanish peace commissioners lasted until 4 o'clock, at which hour they adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock next Friday afternoon, such interval being desirable and necessary to allow separate consideration by each commission of matters requiring such course before the joint commission. The interval will be thus filled with work by each commission, the ultimate results being so facilitated.

The secretary of the Spanish commission arrived last night and the interval will be also employed by the secretaries jointly in maturing plans for the work and procedure. While the American commissioners were at luncheon yesterday General Merritt called at their hotel, but he did not wait to see them. He called again this morning to meet the members of the commission.

The Spanish and American commissioners will be received today by President Faure. The hour fixed for the reception of the Americans is 4:45 o'clock. General Merritt will accompany the Americans to this function, which will be held at the Palais de Elysee.

The opinion is now held that the work of the commissions may be finished within a month from the present time.

While it is the general impression that yesterday's meeting was again devoted to preliminaries and that the adjournment to Friday was taken only to enable the secretaries to draw up a schedule of work, the representative of the Associated Press learns that the session was highly important and that the Americans have made a demand of such character that the Spaniards found it necessary to ask for an adjournment in order to enable them to consult with the government at Madrid.

It is believed that the question concerns the Philippines and it is known that the Americans are highly pleased at having so soon reached what they consider a very important phase of the negotiations and consider the two sessions thus far held as very satisfactory to America. The fact that a member of the commission expressed the belief that the work would be completed within a month indicates a happy frame of mind.

In the Spanish camp great hopes are built on what they believe General Merritt will advise, namely, that the Philippines are incapable of self-government and that the whole situation does not warrant America in taking the responsibility for the entire Philippines. The Spaniards are quite ready to give whatever America asks in the way of coaling stations, but will resist more, to the verge of a renewal of hostilities.

SPAIN WILL OBJECT.

Will Combat Vigorously to Retain the Philippines.

MADRID, Oct. 4.—The reported intention of the United States government to retain the whole of the Philippine islands has created almost a state of stupefaction here and it is semi-officially announced that the Spanish government has resolved to vigorously combat any such action, which, it is claimed, the terms of the peace protocol preclude.

General Rios, governor of the Visayas islands, reports to the government another defeat of the insurgents in the province of Antigua. He says the Spaniards captured the town of Bugason, killing 24 of the insurgents.

MAY GO DIRECT.

Soldiers at Camp Meade Likely to Be Sent From There to Cuba.

Sick Taken Away.

CAMP MEADE, MIDDLETOWN, Pa., Oct. 4.—Major General Graham takes no stock in the report that the Second corps will be shipped from Camp Meade to Aniston, preparatory to being sent to the West Indies as an army of occupation. The health of his command is excellent and the general believes it will be retained in the north until it is driven to a warmer climate by cold weather. He thinks it would be folly to take the troops away from a healthy location and put them in an unhealthy place in the south and then ship them from there to Cuba, which is even more unhealthy. If the war department officials take his advice the corps will be shipped direct to Cuba from Camp Meade.

He proposes to have a series of reviews before the corps leave here. He will review the troops himself first to ascertain and correct any defects, and will follow this review with brigade reviews and general military functions. He says he will be very happy to parade the corps at the peace jubilee at Philadelphia if the war department gives him permission.

The Second West Virginia has been ordered to vacate its present quarters, which will be used as a second parade ground, the other parade ground being too far distant from the corps headquarters.

Chaplain Kelly returned from Gettysburg yesterday with 30 men of the West Virginia regiment who were taken to the Second division hospital. Four of the soldiers are suffering from typhoid fever and others from rheumatism. The West Virginians started on a march to York, where the regiment will be a big feature at the county fair. They will resume the march to Camp Meade on Friday, reaching the camp about Monday.

Yesterday afternoon a train under the auspices of the Red Cross Society took 48 sick soldiers to Philadelphia hospitals.

Colonel Girard thinks the city hospitals and the good nursing have saved many lives.

Private Joseph Cover, Company A, Tenth Ohio, died yesterday afternoon at the Raymond and Campbell's works, Middletown. Cover called at the works to sharpen his pocket knife on a felt wheel. He was refused and after the foreman turned his back Cover placed the knife on the wheel. The knife was scarcely on the wheel until it caught, flew off and struck the soldier in the right leg, severing an artery.

THE FOREST FIRES.

Still Raging in Wisconsin But Danger Believed to Be Over—Checked in Colorado.

CUMBERLAND, Wis., Oct. 4.—The bodies of an unknown man and boy were found yesterday in the woods between Almena and Poskin lake, burned beyond recognition. Several persons are still missing. Peter Ecklund, who was seriously burned in the forest fires, was brought to this city Sunday afternoon in a critical condition and it is thought he cannot live. A 4-year-old daughter of Rudolph Miller and a 7-year-old daughter of Nels Swanson were found in the woods one and one-half miles northeast of Almena so badly burned that they cannot recover. Mrs. Frank Henrichmeier, at Poskin lake, died this morning as the result of fright and exhaustion in fighting fires.

Relief rooms were opened yesterday and relief is being extended the starving families.

The fire is still raging on one side of this city, but the greatest danger is believed to be over. In the town of Johnston, Polk county, eight miles distant, heavy loss of farm property is reported and fires are still raging.

DENVER, Oct. 4.—The forest fires have been checked in many places by snow and rain. Idaho Springs reports that the fires on the west slope of the divide are pretty nearly under control.

Hobson's Change of Program.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Oct. 4.—Lieutenant Hobson has arrived here on a visit. He changed his program and worked for an entire week on the Vizcaya in recovering her guns. Today divers will make a final examination of the Vizcaya's bottom in the hope that there is a bare possibility of raising the ship. Hobson will afterward proceed to the wreck of the Almirante Oquendo and take off her guns, leaving the Christobal Colon until the last.

Can Fix Their Own Rates.

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 4.—The Michigan supreme court, in an opinion filed late yesterday afternoon, reversed the decision of the Wayne county (Detroit) circuit court in the case brought by Governor Pingree to compel the Michigan Central Railway Company to sell mileage books at a flat 2-cent rate. The court holds the company under its special charter, has a right to fix its own rates; that this is a vested right which the state must pay for if it takes it away.

Ordered to Porto Rico.

CHICKAMAUGA, CHATTANOOGA MILITARY PARK, Ga., Oct. 4.—An order was received from the war department yesterday directing the Sixth regiment, United States volunteers, immunes, now stationed at Camp Thomas, to report at New York by Thursday to embark for Porto Rico. The regiment will leave here tonight. About 225 men are out on furloughs, but all have been called in.

Remanded For a Week.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Nancy Guilford, the midwife of Bridgeport, Conn., or the woman suspected of being Dr. Guilford, was remanded at Bow street police court here yesterday for a week after evidence had been presented proving her identity with the woman who landed at Liverpool last week from the steamer Vancouver.

An Interview With the President.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Major General Joseph Wheeler was at the White House yesterday and had a brief interview with the president. General Wheeler said his only mission here was to testify before the war investigating commission, which had summoned him as a witness, and that after being examined he would leave immediately for his camp at Huntsville.

TO BE RELIEVED.

Fresh Troops Will Be Sent to Porto Rico.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—To a number of interested callers yesterday President McKinley had occasion to reiterate his determination to have no more troops mustered out for the present. In the course of several interviews he stated in substance that it was the intention of the administration to send fresh troops to Porto Rico to take the place of the volunteers who will have to be returned home and who will be given furloughs. He stated very firmly that there would be no general discharges until the situation was "cleared up."

The president also during the day testified to his appreciation of the soldiers from the south. He said one of the results of the war which particularly gratified him was that the war seemed to have effaced the last vestige of sectional feeling as between the north and south. He referred to the hearty responses from the south when the war broke out, and concluded with the statement that if the elimination of all differences of feelings between the north and south was to continue permanently he would be a happy man. He also spoke of the evident contentment of the southern troops to remain in service as long as they were needed. The troops which have been ordered to Porto Rico will relieve a like number of regiments now in the island, the organizations to be designated by General Brooke.

WILL START TODAY.

The War Investigating Committee to Examine Witnesses—Several Complaints About Transports.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—All the members of the war investigating commission were present at yesterday's session except ex-Governor Beaver, and the announcement was made that he would be in attendance today, when General Wheeler will be present as the first witness before the commission. Yesterday's session was devoted largely to the consideration of the method for the examination of witnesses, and in this connection the question of administering oaths was discussed at considerable length. The members generally took the position that under a strict construction the commission had no authority to compel a witness to be sworn by a member of the commission, but there was also a general opinion that the witnesses would not raise technical objections and that they in all probability would submit to be sworn without opposition.

It was suggested that the whole difficulty might be avoided by getting the president to appoint one of the officers of the board to the office of a notary public and it is probable that this request will be made with the end in view of having an officer capable of administering oaths present in case of emergency.

To Governor Beaver was assigned the task of leading in the examination of witnesses.

The commission also received several additional communications, which received attention. Among them was a letter from Surgeon General Sternberg inviting the commission to visit his office.

Several complaints were made in regard to the method of transporting men from Santiago, the names of the vessels on which it was alleged the abuses had occurred being the Concha, the Seneca, the Breakwater, the Olive and the City of Washington. It was decided to make a thorough investigation of this branch of the service.

The commission also decided to permit the presence during the hearings of three stenographers as representatives of the press in addition to the representatives of the press associations.

The commission called at the war department late yesterday and saw Secretary Alger, Assistant Secretary Meiklejohn and Adjutant General Corbin for a few minutes. The call was purely social.

Made Demonstration Against Europeans.

PEKIN, Oct. 3.—During the celebration yesterday of the festival of the moon, the drunken crowds which had gathered upon the streets threw mud upon all Europeans who made their appearance. As a precautionary measure the Russian legation ordered an escort of Cossacks from Port Arthur. The British minister also ordered a guard of 25 marines from Wei-Hai-Wei.

Shafter at Governor's Island.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—General W. F. Shafter, who has been appointed to the head of the department of the east, went to Governor's Island yesterday to take charge. He was received with a major general's salute.

TO BE HERE TOMORROW

Cleveland Merchants Are Coming Early.

IN WELLSVILLE ALL NIGHT

They Will Make an Early Start, and Coming to This Place by Special Train Will Spend Two Hours Visiting Their Customers and Looking Over the City.

The Cleveland business men who are touring a portion of Ohio and a small part of Pennsylvania in order that they may visit their customers, will be in East Liverpool tomorrow morning.

This morning Agent Adam Hill received a letter from C. L. Kimpball, assistant general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania lines, stating that the party would leave Cleveland in a special train this morning and reach Wellsville tonight at 6:55 o'clock, after visiting all towns of importance on the main line and Steubenville.

They will leave Wellsville at 8 o'clock and spend two hours in this city. Each merchant will call upon his customers, and it is then proposed to gather all the visitors together and show them through a pottery. The plan was only suggested this morning, and is being worked out today.

The board of trade and as many of the business men as possible will meet the visitors at the train and conduct them over the city.

HOGAN'S ALLEY.

A Favorite With Theater Goers Is Coming to Town.

"Hogan's Alley" with the original company with Gilmore & Leonard and their latest edition of this popular nonsensicality will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House on Wednesday, Oct. 5. With this season the farce enters upon its third year of phenomenal success, everything that is new having been added to make it the laugh beater of the world, and again the Yellow Kid comes into prominence with a batch of originalities that he says he has laid away for a rainy day, but as they are too good to keep he does not know of a better way to dispose of them than by giving them to the lovers of fun; everybody who reads the papers are acquainted with him and his bright sayings, and in this edition he is in his element with his sweetheart Nelly, played by the vivacious little soubrette Mazie King, all the original characters being faithfully portrayed, Hogan and his rival Brogan being played by the propounders of Irish wit, Gilmore & Leonard, while the part of Mrs. Brogan falls in the hands of Miss Mina Shirley.

Will Pilgrim Commandery Leave For Pittsburg.

Pilgrim Commandery, Knights Templars, are drilling every evening and expect to make a good showing at the conclave next week. They will leave for Pittsburg on the early train Monday.

The commandery has grown wonderfully since its organization, and during the years it has been the baby of the state it has shown wonderful progress.

On the River.

The rain of early this morning will not cause any rise in the river and the stage still remains low. The marks at the wharf this morning registered 1.9 feet and stationary. There is only a very slight hope of the river rising before next week if it does so then.

Benefits to Follow Building the Nicaraguan Canal.

THE JAPANESE OUR FRIENDS.

Mr. Shizno Kondo, President of the Japan-American Commercial and Industrial Association of Tokyo, Explains the Possibilities of Commerce—Says We Will Finally Outdo Our Japanese Rivals—Need of American Bottoms.

Mr. Shizno Kondo, president of the Japan-American Commercial and Industrial association of Tokyo, Japan, delivered an address the other night before the Manufacturers' association of New York at its headquarters in Brooklyn borough on the possible advantages to be derived through commercial intercourse between Japan and the United States. Mr. Kondo urged the construction of the Nicaragua canal as an outlet to the Pacific. He began by referring to the older and once powerful nations of the old world and the desire of the modern nations of Europe for strong support from one another, saying that stanch Germany had been obliged to invite an alliance with England, France had sought Russia, and that England now had a liking for the American eagle. Then he added:

"Speaking unofficially, I may say that Japanese money is being put in large amounts on Uncle Sam. The marvelous conquests of western men have swept away old conditions, and today the commercial center of the world is rushing from the Mediterranean sea to both shores of the Atlantic, where it now controls. The conviction comes home to you in no uncertain manner that the present Atlantic commercial supremacy is seeking an outlet into the Pacific ocean. Through the Nicaragua canal—an enterprise greater than that of the Suez canal, because it will certainly revolutionize all trade—will pass a commerce unequalled in the history of the world. Whosoever accomplishes this gigantic work will be greater and nobler than any king or emperor or man who ever lived for the reason that this canal will be the searchlight of civilization and progress to the 700,000,000 of that population which lives about the shores of the Pacific ocean and in its islands and will awaken these people to the blessings of liberty, independence, prosperity and education.

"The dawn of Pacific supremacy will date from the successful achievement of the Nicaragua canal. Pacific cables will undoubtedly be completed about the same time, thus linking the trade of your Pacific coast to the western borders of South America, Australia, Hawaii, Japan, Korea, China, Philippines, Straits Settlements and even India. These countries are universally accepted as the future markets of the world. Under no circumstances should the United States fail to utilize every opportunity to control Pacific trade.

"The motive for your recent war, to deliver the neighboring island of Cuba from slavery, misadministration and anarchy, together with various acts of your government in the determination, was the open announcement of justice, righteousness and humanity, and has been highly applauded by Japan. Hawaii has already been annexed as a side issue of the war—the natural sequence of political expediency and public policy. Once you have annexed Hawaii the retention of the Philippines is expected by all the powers concerned, avowedly or tacitly, as the rightful fruits of conquest. Furthermore, I firmly believe that your act of retaining the Philippines is the act of humanity and civilization. The formal presence of the stars and stripes in the critical eastern amphitheater would eventually clear up the treacherous clouds that have long been hanging over our horizon. Indeed your participation in eastern affairs is greatly desired by all Asiatic nations, and especially by Japan.

"Japan looks to the conclusion of a reciprocal trade with the United States as the first step in promoting growth of closer commercial relations and clearer political understandings. Since Japan was awakened by the patient efforts of the United States and inspired by the genius, brains and minds of the Yankee she has quickly adopted the spirit of modern civilization and has made a record of national progress never equaled. Japan's purchases from abroad become larger every year. Your exportation to Japan increased about 65 per cent in 1897. The United States will find Japan a profitable customer rather than a dangerous competitor. Our people look upon the United States as a sister nation and regard her people as our benefactors and firm friends.

"You here witness the representative of the entire population of Japan in the Japan-American Commercial and Industrial association, the object of which is to encourage the consumption of American products in Japan as well as in all eastern countries, to ameliorate any difficulties in existing methods of trade and to secure a reciprocal traffic between the United States and Japan. I firmly believe that the time has now come for a vigorous movement on the part of American commercial and industrial bodies to co-operate with us in guiding the current of racing commercial supremacy.

"The expansion of American export trade clearly demonstrates the need of carrying bottoms under its own flag. It must be remembered that the largest part of the eastern trade has been carried by the competitive flags of the United States. The statistics of 1896 show in the value of merchandise carried under the American flag an increase of 15 per cent as compared with 1892, while England has gained 74 per cent and Germany 131 per cent in the same period. These disadvantages, coupled with the high cost of transportation and the loss of time involved in making shipments, disturb the encouragement of consumption of American products abroad, and also drive her prospective customers to a market that makes prompt shipments at regular rates of freight. You are probably accustomed to hear such complaints from all your eastern customers. We always ask, Why do you Americans not start direct lines of your own?"

"Your exportable merchandise is not too well beloved by foreign carriers. At this propitious time the United States should liberally subsidize shipping and encourage merchantmen to such a degree as to enjoy the entire benefits of the projected Nicaraguan canal. The pioneer merchantmen of Great Britain made a thorough exploration for years, and have been patiently catering to eastern markets, following closely the business requirements and commercial necessities of these markets; educating the people to the consumption of western products with the ultimate object of Anglicizing these profitable markets.

"The result of this missionary work was to monopolize Asiatic trade to such a degree that the word 'British' came to be considered a synonymous term for 'all imported goods,' until the recent amazing industrial development of Germany encroached in that quarter of the globe. The export trade of the United States has grown very rapidly in the last year—much faster than that of any other nation. The fact is shown that while United States exports to Japan increased 65 per cent in 1897 over 1896, the total increase of export to Japan from all other countries is only 28 per cent in the same year.

"This extraordinary progress of American commerce in Japan is due not so much to special effort put forth by American manufacturers and merchants, but much credit should be given to the excellent quality of your products. I cannot too vigorously call your attention to the suicidal policy of trusting the explanations of the merits of your products to foreign carriers and merchants. At heart they have no sympathy for your splendid handicraft. Our government and our association have taken steps to correct this wrong, so far as it may, by the establishment of a museum where American goods at least have a fair show. We look very anxiously to this great republic as a desirable market for our products.

"The time will soon come when you will outdo all your rivals in Japan. This is also true of all eastern countries. In every part of the globe Germany and England are universally regarded as international commercial factors. They are instinctively active in furthering commercial relations with the rest of the world. They stimulate their people, furnish them every report and investigation of commercial and industrial nature with a thorough education of the trade capabilities and mercantile methods of other countries. Wherever they go there you shall find a well equipped organization and publications for their interest.

"The unlimited natural resources of the United States, in time worked up by the genius and brains of enterprising Yankees, are bound to prevail all over the world. Even as it is today, your flour, cotton, sole leather, rails, nails, watches, kerosene oil, cigarettes, electrical machinery and supplies, boilers and engines, tubes and pipes, locomotives, railway material, leather belting and other innumerable products are the principal exports from the United States to Japan and are accepted without any special effort having been made by your merchants.

"Now, gentlemen, the need of trade organizations abroad for the interest of American commerce and industry calls for your earnest support, and with this object in view the Japan-American Commercial and Industrial association came to life with its organ, The Japan-American Commercial Journal, printed in Japanese and English, the first and only official commercial publication which advocates your interest in Japan as well as all eastern countries.

"The recent war has proved that you have an army, a navy and boundless resources. The cry of 'Remember the Maine!' was heard not only by the Spaniards, but it echoed around the world. We in Japan took up the cry in full sympathy and in the spirit of destiny, knowing that the inevitable was upon us, and that after a brief rest on Atlantic shores, regal commerce with her gorgeous retinue was again preparing to sweep westward. Therefore we have answered your cry with a new one, 'Remember the Pacific!' We of Japan have been called the Yankees of Asia, and we are proud of the name."—New York Times.

USED WIT AND CASH.

MOST UNIQUE ENTERPRISE OF AMERICAN WOMEN NOW TITLED.

Four of Them Are Credited With Aiding the American Navy—Loaded a "Derelict" With British Munitions—Neutrality Laws Evaded.

Three American women who have married titled Englishmen are credited with having planned and achieved in aid of the United States what was probably the most unique enterprise during the war with Spain. They are Mrs. George N. Curzon, wife of the new viceroy of India and formerly Miss Mary Leiter of Chicago; Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, wife of the British secretary of state for the colonies and the daughter of William C. Endicott, formerly Mr. Cleveland's secretary of war, and the Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt. They were aided by the Countess de Castellane, formerly Miss Anna Gould. By their wit and backed by their money these women, it is now asserted, set the laws of neutrality at naught and landed British arms and munitions in the United States for the American navy through a plan which has no known parallel. They did this, it is stated, at a time when the United States was thought to be in great need of war material and carried their scheme through without a hitch.

Knowledge of this brilliant achievement only leaked out the other day. In the Brooklyn navy yard, in an inlet near the "boneyard," is a clipper built East Indiaman on which is painted the name Scipio. But close scrutiny, it is claimed, would reveal that Scipio had been rather rudely painted over another name—that of Ravenna, which, by the way, is the name of a regular boat of the English Occidental and Oriental Steamship company. The Ravenna arrived at London from a voyage in May and went to her dock on the Thames. At this time the United States had made up its mind that it was going to have war and also going to have the munitions of war. England had sundry guns and much powder that America would like to make a deal for. But the neutrality laws—ah, there was the rub! And all this time the good ship Ravenna was lying at her dock in the Thames. Then she sailed away, not to the orient, as of old, but to Antwerp. She was flying the union jack of England, but the company's flag was not over her. At Antwerp she loaded with ballast, ballast neatly packed in large boxes and very carefully handled, and then she steamed away for a Canadian port, which she never reached. Meanwhile Cuba was blockaded, and the American coast was patrolled. Among the scouting boats was one, said to be the cruiser Columbia, which one morning steamed straight for a given point in the ocean, it seemed, and to the surprise of her crew, when in the vicinity of Cape Henry, she sighted and made for what proved to be a most mysterious derelict. She was in good trim, without leak or injury, but there was no living soul aboard of her or in sight. The story goes she bore the name Ravenna.

A little later and two powerful navy tugs, the Narkeeta and the Nina, steamed up the bay with a clipper built ship flying the American flag and bearing the name Scipio. She was supposed to be in ballast, but that ballast was very carefully handled, as carefully as had been the ballast put on board the Ravenna at Antwerp, and it was taken to the arsenal. Gossips do say that some of those guns that England had and some of the powder that America needed so badly just at that time found their way across the Atlantic and fell into our hands in good season. Light on the mystery has been shed recently. When war was declared, the New Orleans, in England, from Brazil, had to leave her English port, and the Duchess of Marlborough, who was Consuelo Vanderbilt, became aroused to action, so the story goes, to aid the United States. She planned, with the approval of her husband, and interested Mrs. Chamberlain and Mrs. Curzon in the movement. The Countess de Castellane is said to have joined the compact later on.

They bought the Ravenna outright, it is asserted, and loaded her down not only with projectiles and ammunition, but with some of the guns which the New Orleans had not had time to mount before sailing. One morning the cruiser Columbia, whether by accident or design has not been officially stated, picked up the Ravenna a short distance off

A woman who takes chances with her health is simply gambling with the Black Devil of Disease. If she has any weakness or derangement of the delicate organism of her sex, to rely upon an unskilled, inexperienced, general practitioner is to risk her health upon a gambler's hazard. Her only real safety is in the careful well-digested advice of a physician who has had wide, special experience in diseases of this particular class.

The chief consulting physician of the famous Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. R. V. Pierce, has devoted thirty years of special study and practice to the weaknesses and diseases peculiar to women. His grand medicine, the "Favorite Prescription," has done more to restore perfect health and strength to women than any other medicine. It is the only proprietary medicine devised for this purpose by an educated, skilled specialist in woman's peculiar ailments.

A woman writing to Dr. Pierce regarding herself may feel absolute assurance of receiving, free of charge, the best professional advice by means of which the most obstinate of these delicate troubles may be promptly relieved and permanently cured.

Barbra A. Mudd, of Indian Creek, Monroe Co., Mo., writes: "I am very thankful for what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription did for me. I was all broke down from nervous prostration, but since taking this medicine I have had more relief than from all the doctors. Your 'Favorite Prescription' did me a world of good."

DONE SO QUIETLY.

East Liverpool People Are Surprised—Like a Ray of Sunshine to Many a Home.

It comes like a ray of sunshine. Makes the old folks happy. And the young folks joyful. Takes the load off the back. It is all done so quietly. No fuss about it. What is it? Why, Doan's Kidney Pills! The little Kidney Wonder-Workers. What will they do? Read what a citizen says:

Mrs. A. Searight, No. 152 High street, East End, says: "I had a severe attack of kidney disease over a year ago which confined me to my bed for about three months. I affected my entire system and while I was able to be about I never got completely rid of it. I suffered almost constantly with a dull, heavy pain across the loins; if I sat for any length of time, or did anything that brought me into a stooping position and attempted to rise, there would be a sharp shooting pain in the small of my back that felt as if a knife or other sharp instrument had pierced me. I could not sleep when I went to bed, expecting to get rest. I was often robbed of it by nervousness and pain in my back. I have risen unrefreshed and more tired and worn out than I was when I retired. I had taken so much medicine without being cured that I was discouraged. I belong to the Daughters of Liberty and the Maccabees and notified them to drop me, but they refused to do so; this made me more determined than ever to get well, as I did not want to be a burden to them. Doan's Kidney Pills presented themselves in the form of a newspaper account. I got some at the W. & W. Pharmacy. They proved to be the proper remedy for me. Their mild and gentle influence gradually reduced the pain in my back and strengthened the weakness. All the symptoms having disappeared, I rested well at night and gained in strength and weight every day. Of course I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills; it would not be right to refuse to, for the benefit of other sufferers."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name, Doan's and take no other.

Cape Henry. It was singular that the cruiser should have been there, and more so that the Ravenna had not a single man aboard. Comment is unnecessary, but the lifeboats were missing and the crew has never been heard of and probably never will be. In other words, the Columbia found it convenient to board the Ravenna and find what she could find. She found just the sort of ammunition that the New Orleans had needed. The Ravenna, under her regular flag, is expected to reappear in the oriental trade in a little while, provided she is repurchased.—Chicago Times-Herald.

J. J. Purinton Goes Into Council For More Water.

IT WILL LIKELY BE GIVEN

Sewers Condemned a Year Ago Cause the Board of Health to Rise in Its Wrath. Long Time Residents Have an Anniversary—All the News.

Council met last night with all members present except Isaiah James.

The mayor's report, showing the receipts for the month, and the report of the water works trustees, were read and filed. Bills were reported by the finance committee, which amounted to $1,076.51. These bills were ordered paid, and as there was lacking $450 of this amount in the treasury, a resolution was introduced, authorizing the borrowing of that sum at a rate of interest not to exceed 6 per cent., to be again replaced from the general and road fund of the next tax collections.

E. J. Miller, a civil engineer from Wheeling, showed council plans for sewerage, grade and all complete. Council was interested, and when some one inquired the price it was given as $350. The old question of the probable cost of sewerage the town again came up and on being asked his opinion of an estimate Mr. Miller dryly replied that he should say it would not take less than $10,000 or more than $100,000. This reply was highly gratifying to the faction that have always insisted that plans must be drawn and an estimate made before the citizen be asked to vote on bonding the city. While the economical members hold that to pay out several hundred dollars before we know that the people want the town sewerage is not good policy.

A resolution was now introduced and under suspension passed. That the mayor be instructed to give notice that on November 8 the people be asked to vote on bonding the city for $75,000 for sewerage purposes.

A resolution was also introduced condemning certain lands belonging to 20 persons to form an alley 20 feet in width and extending from Fourth to Eleventh streets. It is understood that this will be the route of the proposed switch that the railroad has agreed to put in.

The board of health explained that two sewers had been condemned, and if the nuisances were not abated the board would take action and charge it to the city.

J. J. Purinton, for the new pottery, asked for an extension of water mains for fire protection, and Cooper, Goetz and Minor were appointed to confer with the water commissioners.

Council will meet again October 5.

Old Residents.

Thirty-five years ago today Mr. and Mrs. D. Putt were married.

All the years since have been passed in Wellsville. Ten children have come to their home during that time—seven daughters and three sons. All of whom are living. Half of that number are married. The greater number of the years Mr. Putt has been in the employ of the Cleveland and Pittsburg railroad. He now occupies a responsible position, as operator at the upper depot. No deaths occurring for a period of 35 years in a family is most unusual, and added to that the fact that in all that time the family have lived within a few blocks of their present residence, 315 Broadway, is still more unusual.

The News of Wellsville.

Mrs. David Finnegan, who has been visiting J. M. Kampman since last Saturday, on her way home from a visit to Pennsylvania friends, left for Salineville yesterday.

Mrs. Lawrence, who formerly lived in town, has arrived from her home in Battle Creek, Mich., for a visit with friends.

Mrs. W. D. Robers, of Irondale, who has been visiting the Misses Denham since last Friday, returned home yesterday.

Mrs. Ralph Owen and son, John, who have been visiting Mrs. Owen's parents since last Thursday, returned yesterday to her home in Cleveland.

John McCullough, of Front street, is on the sick list.

Mrs. Mary Davis, of Irondale, was in town shopping yesterday.

Mrs. D. Tarr has returned from a week's visit with her daughter, Mrs. R. C. Ankerman, of Elizabethtown, Pa.

Miss Mary Cope left on the 3 o'clock train yesterday for Canton, where she will visit with Miss Mary Bean. They will then visit friends in Cleveland and return the last of the week.

Dispatcher James Brick and wife have returned from a two week's vacation, which they spent with friends in New Philadelphia.

A New Method Discovered by a Danish Zoologist.

A new method of preserving freshly killed meats has been discovered by the Danish zoologist, August Fjelstrup, already well known through his method of condensing milk without the use of sugar. The system has stood a remarkably hard three months' test at the Odense (Danish) company's slaughter houses in a very satisfactory manner. The method in itself is extremely simple and might be of great service for the troops in the tropics (the writer having had considerable experience in trying to keep meat in Cuba), and the attention of the war department has been called to the subject.

The animal to be used is first shot or stunned by a shot from a revolver (loaded with small slugs) in the forehead in such a way as not to injure the brain proper. As the animal drops senseless an assistant cuts down over the heart, opens a ventricle and allows all the blood to flow out, the theory of this being that the decomposing of the blood is almost entirely responsible for the quick putrefaction of fresh meats. Immediately thereafter a briny solution made of coarse or fine salt, more or less strong, according to length of time meat is to be kept, is injected by means of a powerful syringe through the other ventricle into the veins of the body. The whole process takes only a few minutes, and the beef is ready for use and can be cut up at once. This method has been examined and very favorably reported on by the general councils at Odense and Aarhus and also by many experts.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Home Again.

At last it sounds. The phrase we longed to hear
Is brave and glad in the triumphant cheer,
But tenderest when a weary one may rest
At last with those who know and love him best.
The fleeting years bid memory efface
Life's crude and cruel lines. In softened grace
The picture, lit by hope instead of pain,
Shines, as our boys repeat it, "Home again."

And we, who could but watch the empty chair
And pray for the one whose place was waiting there,
Found in the old time haunts so sad a change
That places most familiar grew most strange.
We, who were lingerers from the battle scene,
With step grown lighter and with pulses keen,
Like wanderers hear the welcoming refrain,
For we, with you, at last are "Home again."

 shows that a vigorous foreign policy, that
 which Mr. Cleveland discussed and
 never used, has at last been inaugurated.

The Republicans of East Liverpool
 should not forget that it is their party

 upon to support at the coming election.
 What could they expect to gain by voting for a Democrat? Absolutely nothing. His ballot would ever be cast

STREET LOAFING.

The complaint comes again that crowds of men and boys are permitted
 by the police to congregate on street
 corners in the business section of the city, and make life a burden for every woman who is compelled to walk by them. Chief Johnson should call the attention of his officers at once, and if they do their duty the practice will cease. There is no excuse for it. East Liverpool is not a country village, nor
 has it one store where the population
 gather in the evening to discuss affairs
 of state and whittle store boxes, yet that
 is the impression gathered by the
 stranger as he attempts to force his way through a crowd. The ordinance should be enforced.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

The people of East Liverpool expect
 the board of education to conduct its meetings with decorum. That is no
 place for the venting of any petty spite,
 nor should any member attempt it. If he has a grievance let that grievance be stated in a manly, straightforward manner, giving the board an opportunity to decide on its merits, instead of seizing
 every opportunity to create dissension
 and delay the transaction of public business. They were not elected for that purpose. Their constituents do not expect them to bring their personal matters to a place where the affairs of the community are for consideration. The
 practice cannot be too severely censured.
 If these members cannot confine themselves to public business let them give
 way to men who can.

When They Found It Was Quarantined.

SILENTLY CROSSED RED RIVER

Got Another Train on the Opposite Shore,
 and In 24 Hours Were Safe In St. Louis.
 Experience of a Liverpool Traveler With Shot Gun Protection.

There is one among the travelers of East Liverpool who will not go south
 until the last vestige of yellow fever
 has passed into oblivion, and the men
 who guard state and county boundary
 lines with well loaded shot guns have laid down the weapons of war and taken
 up the implements of peace. He says
 so, and he ought to know. He was in that section of country recently.

The gentleman's name will not be given for reasons which will suggest
 themselves to the reader very soon.
 Principally, however, because it might embroil not only himself but two other faithful travelers and an officer of the Texas state board of health, for be it known they are very strict when any
 man, northern or southern, makes bold
 to run the yellow fever quarantine.

It happened in this way. The Liverpool traveler and the yellow fever were
 in New Orleans at the same time. One
 had been there only a few days while
 ing in the heaps of festering filth under
 a boiling sun. One wanted to get away
 because his business was done, the other
 wanted to leave the city in order that its long bony hand might be stretched over
 the plains of Texas and more helpless
 unfortunates might bow to its will as
 the agent of grim, awful death.

The traveler had not been exposed to
 the fever, and one day he left the Crescent city with its gay but frightened
 people far in the wake, his course being measured toward the boundry of Texas.
 They talked about it that day in the sleeper, and one pompous scion of the wealth, the richest man in the boundary town, ventured the opinion that
 he would not be disturbed by quarantine officers, and seemed to
 gather some amusement from the
 fact that three northern boys were growing uncomfortable. They stood it for a time, but soon the shriek of a newsboy
 at a wayside station announced the presence of important news. With an eagerness born of desperation everybody
 bought a paper and learned that the news of the fever at New Orleans had traveled to Texas and the frontier was guarded by the strongest shot gun policy
 known in many years. Then Mr. Richman's jaw began to sink, and the northern boys began to wonder how they were to get out of a very nasty scrape.

The train, they knew, would be held
 up at the frontier, and after the board
 of health officers had sung their doleful
 song they would be tied up for at least ten days until the time of suspicion had passed.

The program was carried out—in part.
 The engineer was held up in true western style at the edge of town, and while armed and desperate men held the passengers in check, the conductor was informed he could go no farther. The
 health officer soon appeared, and the
 kindly face, while old moneybags sank
 into the hot cushions of his seat and
 swore softly under his breath at a condition where his money was worth no
 more than water.

Not so with the Liverpool boy. He gained permission to send a telegram,
 and going to the junction office nearby
 wired his woes to a high official of Texas. In a short time the answer came. Then he had a talk with the captain of the shotgun guard, and later
 communicated something to his northern friends. They all laughed, and proceeded to make themselves as comfortable as possible.

That night they stole silently from
 the sleeper, after consulting their watches many times, and crouching low
 ran along the side of the train until the last car was reached. There they found a closed carriage, and jumping in were driven rapidly to the bank of the Red river. There a skiff was in waiting,
 and while they rowed across the muddy
 stream they could see a brilliantly lighted train crossing the bridge from Shreveport, whose borders they had
 so recently left. Once on the other side they were safe, and every man of
 them heaved a great sigh of relief as he boarded the sleeper after the big puffing
 engine had come to a standstill. The plans of the Liverpool boy had been successful, his telegram had worked on the sympathies of the Texan official who
 saw the utter uselessness of quarantining men who had never been in the yellow fever district, and his order had
 been obeyed to the letter, the kindly
 faced doctor doing the rest.

 East Liverpool boy in St. Louis.

The New Castle Team Will Play In This Place.

The New Castle interstate base ball team spent last night in this city, and
 left today for Toronto where they will play ball this afternoon. They will return this evening and meet the local team Wednesday and Thursday.

Manager Jack Lytle is well known in the city as the catcher for the Eclipse club when they defeated the Crockery Cities for the local championship several years ago. Another local favorite with
 New Castle is Bobby Cargo, who this season played short for the Canandaigua
 club of the New York league. The home team will be materially strengthened by
 the presence of George Carey on first base, and good games may be expected.

GOING TO CUBA.

A Liverpool Boy Will March With His Regiment.

Austin C., the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. VanFossen, of this city, now a member of Company E, Thirteenth Pennsylvania volunteer infantry, has written his parents that the regiment expects to go to Cuba within a very few days. It has been in camp at Middletown for several months and for weeks there was a slight hope of it being mustered out of the service. He enlisted while the regiment was in Camp Alger.

Board of Education Have Differences

One Question Settled by the Board Deciding to Hold Regular Meetings Every Two Weeks—Miss Andrews and Professor Laughlin Elected.

The board of education met in regular session in the directors' room of the Central building last evening. The meeting, which was started at 8:30 o'clock, was attended by Members Vodyre, Norris, Peach, Fisher, Murphy, Williams and Hill.

The meeting was opened with scripture reading and prayer by Superintendent Rayman.

Mr. Fisher, as a committee of the East End schools, reported that he had secured a Mr. Wolf to act as janitor of the Helena building at a salary of $5.50 a month.

Clerk Norris presented an opinion of the city solicitor of the special meeting held the last of August. The opinion was lengthy, and the last paragraph read as follows: "From the question as submitted to me, and the law as I find it, I must conclude that the meeting was illegal, one member not being personally notified, no written notice being left at his residence or usual place of business."

It will be remembered that Mr. Peach was the member who was not notified legally. He was also out of the city. After the opinion had been read Mr. Murphy stated that, in order to get down to business, he suggested that the meetings be held regularly every two weeks. The board thought likewise, and then Mr. Murphy moved that Miss Andrews be elected to teach in the primary department of the Third street school. Mr. Fisher seconded the motion and Mr. Peach said: "I do not think Miss Andrews' certificate is regular."

"Just look, that paper is not even signed by the clerk of the board of examiners, the grades are not specified, and last of all no per cent is given to the studies in which she was examined," remarked Dr. Williams.

"Better go see the city solicitor," suggested Mr. Hill.

"I think we had better go out and play marbles," responded Mr. Murphy.

When the discussion had quieted somewhat Members Peach, Hill and Williams stated that they would vote for Miss Andrews whenever a proper certificate was presented, and that it was not a personal matter at all.

"This trouble is all foolishness and nothing more," said Mr. Murphy.

A few remarks from Clerk Norris were as follows: "I am not going to enter into any long talk on this matter, but as I am a member of the board, I am going to enjoy my rights, and what is more, if I were so minded I would tell you that the term of the board of examiners expired on August 31. This is caused by law and not by technicalities. I know nothing of Miss Andrews except that she is now teaching in our schools and has an excellent record."

Mr. Murphy said that Miss Andrews was hired by the board, and left a good position in Pittsburgh to come here. "I fully believe that she could get back at the board through the courts."

The roll call showed a vote of 3 to 4 against the employment of Miss Andrews.

Mr. Murphy moved Professor Laughlin be elected musical instructor, at a salary of $60 a month. Mr. Peach amended that the matter be laid over until the next meeting and give the musical people at home a chance. The vote on the amendment was lost.

Mr. Hill then read a few paragraphs from the laws, and after looking at Mr. Laughlin's certificate said: "I am afraid that is not valid."

The motion was lost by a vote of 4 to 3.

Professor Rayman talked a short while upon the work being done in the schools. A proclamation from Governor Bushnell was read to the board. It suggested that October 19 be set aside from routine school work. The day is to be known as La Fayette day, and money be collected for the purpose of erecting a monument over the grave of La Fayette in a cemetery in Paris in 1900. All the schools in the land will do the same thing the same day. The day will be observed here.

Mr. Peach asked that, at the next meeting, before the teachers are paid, a pay roll be presented to the board. It will be done.

A representative of the Ohio Valley Gas company was present, and stated that if the board would use gas and the supply gave out, the company would reimburse the board in the way of paying the bill of filling up the furnaces. The proposition was accepted.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

Albert Corns presented a new water filter for the consideration of the board. Its purchase was left with the pure water committee.

A motion to secure a teacher for a new room in the brick building in East End was carried. Miss Lowrey was elected to the position. She is now acting as a substitute. She will receive a salary of $30 a month.

Professor Rayman asked President Vodyre if Mr. Laughlin and Miss Andrews were to continue their work, but that gentleman stated he did not know.

Mr. Murphy then moved that Mr. Laughlin be elected musical instructor, but Mr. Peach stated that he did not think that Mr. Laughlin gave enough time to the course. Mr. Hill talked likewise, but Superintendent Rayman told the board how much time was devoted to music, so the matter was dropped by a vote being taken in Mr. Laughlin's favor.

Miss Andrews was once more elected, provided she furnished a proper certificate to the clerk of the board.

The report of the committee on the course of study was received. The report was discussed at length by Doctor Williams. He did not know what was being done in the various rooms until he was advised by Superintendent Rayman.

The meeting then adjourned.

SUSPICIOUS.

The Police Made Two Arrests This Afternoon.

This afternoon Chief Johnson and Officer Whan arrested George Stewart, of Smith's Ferry, and David Gourley, of this city. Both men are now in jail charged with being suspicious persons. An investigation is being made, and when this is completed a specific charge will be filed against them or they will be released.

For several days two men have been calling at the residences of people living in the vicinity of College, Robinson and Walnut streets, and asking for the loan of a hatchet, wrench, chisel or like articles. They claimed they had a wagon they wished to repair around the corner, and the tools would be returned to their owner within a short time. In some places they were successful in obtaining a loan, but they never returned the articles.

When the men had a large lot of tools they either sold or traded them for liquor.

Yesterday the officials were furnished a description of the men, and since that time a diligent search has been made. The ones who were arrested this afternoon were caught in the vicinity of Faulk's mill and when approached by the officers started to run away, but were finally captured. The men were drunk and would not say any thing of their actions.

City Is Not Compelled to Pay Mr. Hayes $5,000

The Famous Leetonia Mayoralty Case, In Which the Greenamysers Are Involved, Will Have Another Hearing In Probate. Circuit Court Decisions.

LISBON, Oct. 4.—[Special]—The circuit judges gave out decisions in the cases brought before them today.

In the case of Anne Connors and others plaintiff in error against Louisa Patterson, the decision of common pleas was affirmed. Action was brought by Louisa Patterson to recover possession of land between lots 45-6 in Wellsville. The court said the section line was the fence east of lot 45, and the case would be reversed on the evidence, but the evidence as it came to circuit court was not understandable without the plats presented to the jury. Judge Burrows delivered the opinion.

John Matthews against Mary Matthews was brought by John to reverse the decision of lower courts in admitting a will to probate. One witness said he saw the testator sign the instrument, but did not acknowledge it as his will. On this ground John objected to the will to probate. The will was admitted, exceptions taken, and common pleas called to decide. There the judgment was affirmed. Coming to circuit, the court held that the testator must acknowledge his signature and the instrument to be his will. Judgment of the lower courts was reversed, and the case remanded to probate with instructions to reject the probate of the will.

The case of East Liverpool against William Hayes was brought by the city to reverse a judgment of $5,000 obtained against it by Hayes for causing, by negligence, the death of Mrs. Hayes, who was killed by city horses two years ago last spring. The city claimed two grounds of error.

First—That the petition does not state facts sufficient to constitute grounds of action. Second—That there was error in the charge of the court.

The circuit court was of the opinion that sufficient facts were stated, but found error in the charge of the lower court. Therefore the judgment was reversed and a new trial ordered. Judge Laubie delivered the opinion.

The case of J. A. Greenamyre against J. S. Greenamyre, the Leetonia mayoralty contest, was tried on waste of evidence. Seven ballots had been thrown out by the judges, four in the north precinct and five in the south. That elected J. A. Greenamyre by one vote. Circuit found three votes in the north were cast for J. S. Greenamyre and one for John, and on that basis Joshua would be elected. That is how the probate court decided. But the probate had rejected five in the south, three of them properly. Two, however, should not have been rejected, as they showed the intention of the voter to vote for John A. Greenamyre, electing him by one vote. The claim made by John that probate court had no authority to hear it a second time was found to be without cause. Error was found in the proceedings in probate, and the case remanded for trial.

News of the Courts.

LISBON, Oct. 4.—[Special]—The county commissioners have arranged with the Pennsylvania company for a change in the dangerous crossing a few miles south of Alliance on the Cleveland and Pittsburgh. The company agrees to raise its tracks three feet at the crossing, and the roadway will be cut underneath. The company will decide tomorrow whether the work is of such magnitude that it cannot complete it before spring, owing to the fact that the rise at the crossing will necessitate a rise for a considerable distance on each side.

The crossing has long been a menace to the public, and a number of persons have been killed at that point.

MUMMY PICTURES.

The Latest Fad In Photography For Society Women.

Society often goes out of its way to obtain a fresh sensation. The latest craze, which was inaugurated by Mrs. James P. Kernochan of New York on her return from abroad, is to pose for one's photograph in a mummy frame. This startling fancy originated in Cairo, Egypt, in which place Mrs. Kernochan spent last winter.

To obtain a mummy case in Cairo is a comparatively easy matter. The enterprising photographer there keeps one in stock for his American patrons. The picture is taken in this way: The subject steps into the case, which is placed on end, and the lid is then closed, leaving an opening just large enough for the face. It is a gruesome idea, but a popular one. The mummy pictures are considered graceful and appropriate souvenirs of a trip to Egypt to present on returning to the friends at home.

The fad has attained such instant popularity, however, that many persons are not waiting for a tour of the east in order to see a picture of their own faces peering out at them from a mummy case. New York photographers prepare a picture of a mummy case and simply insert the face of the person desirous of obtaining such a unique photograph.

It is whispered that a number of these weird photographs are to circulate on All Halloween, when the ghostly and the ghastly are always in demand. The girls are already finding amusement in replying to requests from amorous swains for their photographs by presenting them with a mummy picture. Beds and philopenas are also canceled in this fashion. The feelings of the lover may be imagined when he is unexpectedly confronted with the features of his beloved enshrouded in the antique habiliments of death.

Many people think that the idea is too morbid to be encouraged. The mummy case is too suggestive of a coffin to be entirely pleasant. However, this weird fancy is desirable at present, and for its little day the mummy picture promises to be a popular fad.—New York World.

HAVE BOUGHT A WAGON

It Is a Combination Hose and Ladder.

WILL ARRIVE HERE THIS WEEK

One Matter Connected With East End Fire Station Quickly Settled When Chief Morley and Councilman Cain Examined the Matter.

The new apparatus for the East End fire station has at last been purchased, and it consists of a combination hose and ladder wagon.

At the last meeting of council the fire committee recommended that an Akron hose wagon be purchased, at a cost of $165, and stated that the guards for the ladders could be put on at a slight cost, the wagon complete not costing more than $200. Council ordered the committee to have the wagon sent here on approval, but it was afterwards deemed best to go to Akron and view the wagon, and the latter part of last week Mr. Cain and Fire Chief Morley went to Akron and after looking at the wagon it was purchased and will be here in a few days.

The wagon is built very much like the wagon at the central station, but is lighter and will be just the thing for the East End department.

The fire committee will meet some evening this week for the purpose of discussing plans of purchasing horses for the department and selecting a fireman. The result of their deliberations will be recommended to the next meeting of council with the request that they act at once.

NO MEETING.

Finance Committee and Trustees Did Not Get Together.

The meeting of finance committee of council, to have been held last evening for the purpose of having a settlement with the water works trustees, failed to materialize.

The only members of the committee present were Messrs. Marshall, Cain and Peach, and after spending some time at city hall they decided to go home. Another meeting will be called this week.

Will Begin Practice Without Unnecessary Delay.

The Rovers met last evening and held a very enthusiastic meeting.

It was decided to begin practice at once, and several new players were signed. The election of officers was postponed for one week, and A. V. Gilbert was selected as a delegate to the league meeting to be held in Pittsburgh, Oct. 18.

Cheap Trips.

Persons contemplating business or pleasure trips to the northwest, west or southwest may arrange for an enjoyable journey at low fare by communicating with J. K. LOVE IN CUBAN CAPITAL.

Senoritas In Havana Are Hedged About With Conventionalities.

The residents of Havana are taking up the study of the English language. The Spanish residents are particularly anxious to learn to speak the tongue, which they believe will supersede the Castilian in Cuba. Young girls rapidly learn, the first word generally being "goodby." American gallants find it a little puzzling to be accosted on the street by beautiful girls who utter these words in a tone impossible to describe, but falling pleasantly on the ear of the man from the States. The latter is apt to think it means more than it does, and it is safe to caution the incoming young man that no one necessarily desires a flirtation with him because he is saluted in American style. It is merely an evidence of good will toward a nation of which the recipient happens to be a representative. It is best to return the salutation in kind and let it go at that.

For the guidance of those who shortly will come from the great republic to seek their fortunes in the West Indies, a short description of the modus of love-making in the Antilles would not be amiss. The Spanish or Cuban lover follows the idyl of his affection, at first, from afar off. Subsequently, with some relative of his or hers, he calls. But he is never alone with his love. There is always an elder sister, the mother or a female companion of age, to look after the proprieties. How they manage it only the Castilian knows. The North American generally finds the prospect an insurmountable barrier.

After the proper time spent in wooing, the parents of the two most concerned settle all matters, and the young people are married forthwith. Little time is spent in the courtship. The eyes of the lover tell it all. Until the marriage no man ever touches the hand of his mistress, and to kiss her would be the height of folly. The woman would thereafter be marked and so fallen in the estimation of all good persons that she would be avoided by them, while the man would cease to care for her. Of course this is only true of the best families; with others there is more latitude, as is the case the world over.—Cor. New York Press.

PAINFUL PIPE JAW.

New Disease to Which Inveterate Pipe Smokers Are Succumbing.

"What is the matter with you?" asked one young man of another who was holding his cheek in his hand and groaning audibly.

"Pipe jaw," returned the youth dolefully.

"Pipe jaw?" "Yes, that's it. Never heard of it? Well, it's a genuine affliction and prevalent just at present. No; it isn't anything like a pipe face. I'll tell you how it is contracted. Fellows who smoke pipes a great deal often get into the habit of biting the stem. If they are students or men who smoke at their desk work, they press the stem tightly between the teeth, thus causing the jaws to spread ever so slightly. This in turn affects the hinge of the jaw, so that every time a man with the pipe jaw distends his jaws the bones of the hinge grind and crack, producing a noise which may be plainly heard five feet away. It also causes pain at times, especially early in the morning, after a good long bout with the pipe the night before.

"When I first contracted the trouble, I did not know what was the matter with me, but I met a number of the fellows, who complained of similar distress, and on comparing notes we discovered that it all came from the incessant use of the pipe and biting on the stem. So we began calling it pipe jaw, and on mentioning the subject to a leading New York physician he agreed with us that pipe jaw was the most appropriate descriptive name that could be applied to an increasing ailment which in time no doubt will have a recognized department in therapeutics."—New York Herald.

Klondike Pleasantries.

Tim says that one day he was walking down the main street of Dawson City when he met Emma Kelly, the Topeka girl, and said, "Miss Kelly, your nose is frozen." Miss Kelly looked at him a moment and then replied, "Well, sir, I think yours is too." And so it was. Connelly says he saw the remains of two men who had been buried at Forty Mile five years ago, and the bodies were frozen as stiff as on the day of the funeral.—Lacrosse (Kan.) Republican.

The Passing of the Rough Rider.

The herd has been corralled and shipped to Spain. Much thanks to you, rough rider! You've rounded 'em up, and we shan't complain. If, after your months in the sun and rain, You elect to give your pent feelings rein—Whoop it up, rough rider!

Fill up and be frisky on coffin paint If you like, rough rider! We never supposed that your brand was saint. We wanted a killer with nary taint Of bashful forefinger, and none there ain't In you, rough rider!

Remember the warning your colonel spoke— You know him, rough rider— "For a week or two you're a damned fine bloke; Then if you stay drunk you're a no 'count soak!" Now, while you're a hero, old heart of oak, Farewell, rough rider!

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others?

The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

PATRONIZE UNION CLERKS.

All members of the R. C. N. P. A. can show this card. Ask for it when making your purchases. Endorsed by the A. F. of L.

ONE-THIRD ACTUAL SIZE.

COLOR IS CHANGED EACH QUARTER.

Good only during months named in lower left hand corner and when properly signed, and STAMPED with the number of the Local.

First Captures Under the Curfew Law.

Because He Was Beyond the Age Prescribed by Law, and the Others Were Released After a Lecture—Brady and Long Paid Their Assessments.

Mayor Bough this morning had but a very small amount of business to transact, and as a result matters in police court were very quiet.

Last night as Officers Whan and Grim were walking by the entrance to the opera house they found a crowd of boys loitering on the door step. As it was after 9 o'clock three of them could not give good excuses for being there and consequently they were taken to jail where they were allowed to remain for a while. This morning the mayor heard their stories and released them without assessing a fine.

One of the boys was over 16 years, and when he proved it no more questions were asked.

Samuel Long, who was fined $6.60 yesterday morning, was released last night. He paid his dues and departed.

William Brady called at city hall early last evening and entered a plea of guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct which was filed against him Sunday by Officer Grim. He was fined $6.60, which amount he paid and went away.

Alfred Heakin is expected to call at city hall this week and have his case settled.

As no date has been set for the hearing of the Reymann Brewing company's case the matter is resting.

There was a charge filed against an individual last night and this morning a warrant was issued for his arrest. The name of the party will not be made known until an arrest is made.

The police are still looking for the slick individual who stole a pocketbook Saturday evening. A clue has been furnished but as yet no arrest has been made.

THAT PAY ROLL.

Why Members of the School Board Would See It.

"To tell you the truth I think a good part of the meeting of the board of education last night was nonsense," said a member to the NEWS REVIEW this morning.

"I talked with another member and he thought it nothing short of disgusting. One thing I believe should be looked into carefully, and that is the desire of some members to see the payroll. There is a story back of it. Pressure was brought upon Professor Rayman to close the schools the day of the reception to Company E, for it was generally understood the whole town would join in honoring the boys in blue. He did not feel like taking the responsibility, and communicated with a number of members of the board. The result was a decision to give the children half a day. Now the object in bringing up the pay roll is to see whether the teachers were paid for that time. As I understand they worked that time, Professor Rayman having called a general teachers' meeting for that purpose. I, personally, don't believe the city of East Liverpool should be so small."

If the gentleman's manner can be taken as an indication the matter will be heard of at the next session.

NO MORE TROUBLE

Since the Gang at Cartwright's Was Raided.

Since the raid by the police of the gang of small boys who have been annoying the Cartwright pottery the firm has had no trouble. The small boys formerly went over the roof of the kiln shed and got into the plant through a second story window and slept there unless discovered by the watchman.

HUMANE SOCIETY

Will Have an Opportunity to Help Poor Horses.

There is a great deal of complaint in regard to many teamsters overloading their teams and compelling them to pull loads that are entirely too heavy.

The matter will probably be called to the attention of the Humane society and an effort made to stop the practice.

Horse Ran Away.

A horse attached to a wagon and owned by a Sixth street butcher ran off in Calcutta road yesterday and badly damaged the wagon. The vehicle was upset, and the meat which it contained was thrown about the roadway. The horse escaped with a few scratches.

HISTORY OF FASHODA.

Capital of the Shilluk Country Where Marchand Is Established.

Fashoda, to which the attention of the world has been directed as the supposed point of establishment of a French expedition hostile to the purposes and plans of Great Britain in Central Africa, is the capital of the Shilluk country. In 1845 it was annexed by Egypt to the government of Khartum and was used as a place of transportation for political prisoners and galley slaves. "It is said," writes Gessi Pasha, who was governor of the Bahr-el-Ghazal under Gordon, in "Seven Years in the Sudan," "that any one sent to Fashoda never returns. The climate is unhealthy, the air pestilential, and it rarely happens that a condemned prisoner survives the effects of the privations of the place.

"When Gessi first visited Fashoda, he found no political prisoners there, but there were about 200 convicts working at the galleys. There were a few shops slenderly supplied with articles at a high price. These were for the most part kept by Greeks. The commandant of the place, Lieutenant Colonel Yussuf Bey, was then doing his best to improve the city, but with little success. At that time the surrounding territory yielded only a few hippopotamus hides and the officials and residents were chiefly occupied by the slave trade. Gessi soon made an end of this. At the instance of Gordon the descendant of the sultans of the Shilluks was made bey of Fashoda, with a high salary, and was specially charged to suppress slavery, from which his fellow tribesmen had suffered. The market, which formerly was full of slight huts, in which the Jelabba kept their slaves, was abolished, and slavery was publicly prohibited.

"After the fall of Lupton, who succeeded Gessi as governor, Fashoda, with the rest of the Bahr-el-Ghazal province, fell into the hands of the mahdists. According to Father Ohrwalder, Fashoda then became an important center of the cereal trade. The supplies of corn received from that town at one time saved Omdurman from absolute starvation. Up to 1889 Fashoda continued the supply, most of the native cultivators receiving in exchange glass beads, pieces of copper, iron, cowries and old Medjidie dollars. The khalifa subsequently dispatched Zeki Tummam and an army from Galabat to attack Fashoda and its people. The town and surrounding country were ravaged and ruined by this incursion."—New York Herald.

ENGLAND'S IRONCLADS.

What Would Become of Them if Disarmament Were Arranged.

A correspondent writes: "What shall we do with our ironclads? is a question which it might be expected would rapidly follow the czar's recent intimation to the powers. It is at once curious and significant that the solution to the question should also come from Russia. Admiral Makaroff, it will be remembered, a few days ago announced his scheme for reaching the north pole by crashing his way through the pack ice in a couple of steam ice-breakers. With the requisite 10,000 horsepower he believes he could reach either the 'actual or the magnetic' in 12 days.

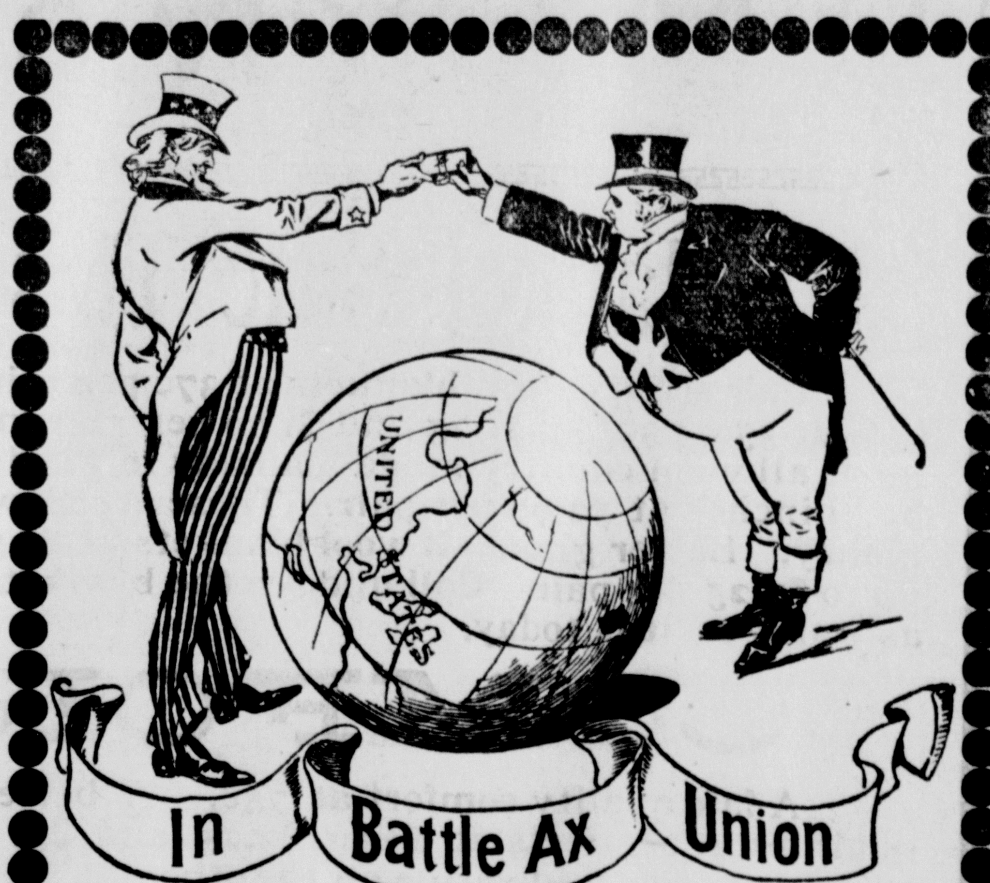

"If Admiral Makaroff's theory be valid, our ironclads could, considering their number and power (and here the muzzle loaders would be equally effective), with tolerable ease blow themselves a path to the pole. Briefly, the plan of action would be for the heavy battleships to approach the limit of solid ice and commence their work of blasting a passage by judicious ramming and the use of heavy shell. One battleship would follow another, passing forward relays of ammunition as required. Some of the lighter cruisers could form a base, just as in the Jackson-Harmsworth expedition. The scheme certainly opens up vistas of artillery display such as the world has never seen." It is very magnificent, but we are afraid it is not polar exploration.—London Chronicle.

BOUNDARY POSTS TUMBLE.

Iron Landmarks of Uncle Sam and Canada Need Repairing.

It is said that the iron posts which mark the international boundary line are falling down in all directions. Dr. R. Stanley Weir of Montreal spent some weeks during the summer in the Lake Memphremagog district, and, being impressed with this unfitness of things, sent this communication to Sir Wilfrid Laurier recently:

"During this summer I spent my vacation on the shores of Lake Memphremagog, a few miles from the boundary line. I observed that the iron posts which mark the boundary between the United States and Canada are, in almost every case, in a very bad state of repair. I saw a number of them at an angle of from 40 to 45 degrees, and if they are allowed to remain in their present condition it is only a question of a very few months when they will collapse entirely. It struck me as unworthy of the dignity of the two nations concerned that the boundary posts should be allowed to continue in so neglected a condition, and I respectfully call your attention to the matter, as it might possibly be provided for by the commission now sitting, or by other means that might occur to you."—New York Sun.

CHING'S GREAT LOVE.

PATHETIC STORY OF COLONEL CARROLL'S CHINESE VALET.

Remarkable Devotion and Strange End of a Young Celestial—He Mysteriously Disappears at San Juan After His Master's Death.

Among the dead and missing in the famous Sixth regular cavalry there is one name not mentioned in the reports—that of Ching, the Chinese valet de chambre of the late hero, Colonel R. N. Carroll, who fell in the San Juan fight. Despite the fact that Ching's name is not on record as one of the victims of the San Juan battle, nevertheless he should be included in all justice as a slight acknowledgment of a rare, dog-like faithfulness. Any officer or man connected with the Sixth will tell of the faithfulness and strange end of the loyal celestial. I have heard the story from one or two privates, but in the Hoffman House in New York the other night a big, brawny first lieutenant told me the details as far as known.

Colonel Carroll, who was intensely loved by his fellow officers and men alike, was a great traveler and took advantage of every opportunity to acquaint himself with the world whenever he took a well earned furlough. During one of his trips he picked up a bright Chinese boy and attached him to his service as a body servant. He was Ching and could give no other name.

When the colonel resided at Fort Scott, Ching was with him, his devoted slave. He anticipated every wish of his master, kept his clothes and accouterments in the pink of condition and always slept within easy call of the commander. Ching was very apt and soon developed into a remarkably fine cook. He invented and served up delectable feasts and luncheons which made it a desired event to be invited to poke one's legs beneath the colonel's board.

When the war broke out between the United States and Spain, Colonel Carroll was ordered at once, with his command, to Tampa. In his judgment the commander thought it wise to order Ching to remain behind at the post. The Mongolian said nothing, but he had the same look in his eyes that can be observed in a faithful hound who is injured by the master he loves.

When the Sixth reached Tampa, the colonel was dumfounded to see Ching toddle into his tent, smiling innocently, and without any explanation proceed to adjust his master's traps. Colonel Carroll could say nothing except, "Well, he's here, and it's useless to argue with him." Then came the orders to proceed at once to Cuba. This time, in his most stern manner and in his most impressive tones, Colonel Carroll ordered his Chinese menial to remain behind, under pain of his most dire displeasure. "Alle light, me

sabee," was the Celestial's reply.

In the hurry and bustle of embarking for the seat of war, the colonel lost sight of Ching and concluded that his orders were to be obeyed. He reckoned not upon the Chinese boy's faithfulness and affection. The transport was not out more than 24 hours before Ching, with his smile "childlike and bland," put in an appearance before the doughty colonel. He was a stowaway, having hidden himself in the hold during the excitement of the departure.

Colonel Carroll stormed and raved, but the smile never left the boy's face. He had accomplished his purpose and was happy. Finally the colonel saw a humorous side to the situation, especially as the officers of his staff laughingly told him he might as well try to lose his shadow as the pigtailed valet. Once in camp in Cuba Ching's usefulness was apparent. No officer's wants were better attended to than were those of Colonel Carroll. His meals were simply marvelous, and the commander frankly admitted that he would be lost without Ching.

All went well until the fatal battle. As the cavalymen rushed into the fight, where the atmosphere teemed with singing Mauser bullets, Ching followed where he could see the well known and beloved figure of the colonel. Then came the fateful bullet which plowed its way through the breast of the brave warrior. As he fell the Chinaman, with tears streaming down his yellow features, appeared from some unnoticed place and pillowed his master's head on his bosom, while he tried to stanch the flow of blood. Red Cross assistants and his own men carried Colonel Carroll to the hospital, the Chinaman following, crying and bowed with grief.

It was soon apparent that the colonel had fought his last fight and that the brave spirit which had subdued the fierce red men was soon to pass away. Meanwhile Ching camped out at the entrance to the hospital tent. He would not be driven away. Every surgeon who came out felt his sleeve plucked and turned to hear the faltering question of the Celestial, "O'lonel Clallol, him glet well?"

For more than 24 hours the faithful servant kept at his post, until a surgeon, regarding him pityingly, told him that Colonel Carroll had just breathed his last. For a moment or two Ching stood like a statue. Then a huge sob shook his frame. Turning, he walked through lines of sympathetic soldiers, who in their own grief said, "The poor Chink's heart's broken, sure."

Straightaway past the sentries, into the underbrush and toward the enemy walked the desolate Chinese boy. He disappeared from sight and has never been seen since.—New York Herald.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

William Erlanger was a Pittsburg visitor today.

Ed Mills, of Lisbon, is calling on friends in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Hill, of Third street, spent the day in Pittsburg.

The Sons of Veterans at their meeting tonight have several candidates to initiate.

The shoemakers union met last evening, but did nothing but transact routine business.

Mrs. J. H. Brookes and Mrs. Robert Martin will entertain Friday afternoon from 4 to 5:30 o'clock.

Robert Stewart, of Latrona, Pa., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Ashbaugh, Seventh street.

The opening of Brunt's hall last evening was well attended, and dancing was indulged in until a late hour.

J. Berger, father of Clav Berger of freight office, spent yesterday in the city. He returned to the city this morning.

The live stock sale at the farm of Samuel Smith near Cannon's Mill today was well attended by people from this city.

The work of lowering the water mains in Avondale street has been completed, and the force are now at work in Lisbon street.

John C. Hanley will leave in the morning for Allegheny where he will resume his studies at the theological seminary.

Invitations have been extended for a reception to be given Thursday evening, at the home of R. Parker, in honor of Will Rollons.

The new cars to be placed on the street railway are expected to arrive in the very near future and will be fitted with trucks at once.

Word received from Corporal Miller, who is ill at his home in Cannon's Mill, states that he is not improving, and his condition is still serious.

The Liederkrantz society last evening entertained a large number of friends at their rooms in Red Men's hall. Dancing was the amusement.

Manager Reark did not succeed in booking a football team for Thursday, and the first game of the season will not be played until next week.

The new flint mill in the East End is running steadily and to its capacity. The plant is complete in every detail, and is one of the best in the city.

The grocery clerks will meet this evening and final action will be taken in regard to the stores that are not living up to the early closing agreement.

Second street was given a thorough cleaning this morning. It is the first time this street has been cleaned for several weeks, and the improvement is very noticeable.

A letter received yesterday states that Private Ed Morley would not be able to be home for at least a month. He has been transferred from the hospital at Camp Wickoff to a New York hospital, and was scarcely able to endure the journey.

Martin Thornberry left this place yesterday for Tampa, Florida, where he will join Troop K, Third U. S. Cavalry, of which he is a member. There were a number of friends at the station to bid him farewell. He has been in the city several weeks spending his furlough.

There was an immense lot of baggage sent out from the Second street depot this morning. The train west arrived 33 minutes late, and the placing of the baggage in the car required 15 minutes. The train left the station at 9 o'clock, or 40 minutes behind time, but it arrived in Cleveland on time. More baggage was handled this morning than there has been at one time for several weeks.

IN INTEREST OF SILVER.

Ways and Means Committee Appointed—Harvey to Manage the Affairs.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Senator James K. Jones, chairman of the national Democratic committee has appointed a ways and means committee consisting of ex-Governor William J. Stone of Missouri, ex-Governor John P. Altgeld of Illinois, Senator William V. Allen of Nebraska and Senator Henry M. Teller of Colorado, and himself. The committee has appointed Mr. W. H. Harvey, author of "Coin's Financial School," as general manager of the committee in charge of its work.

In the letter addressed to Mr. Harvey appointing him general manager, the following expression is made: "You will observe that the committee represents not only the Democratic party, but the allied forces that are working with it for the protection of the republic and free institutions, and it is in a spirit of harmony and true patriotism that we desire your assistance."

Senator Allen is the Populist representative of the committee and Senator Teller represents the Silver Republicans. The first work of the committee will be to raise money for prosecuting a steady methodical campaign.

MENACING FOREIGNERS.

Foreign Ministers Ask For Suppression of Outrages in China.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The Pekin correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, telegraphing by way of Shanghai, says: "A mob is menacing foreigners. The wife of the Italian minister was attacked while on her way to church, and several Americans coming from the railway were wounded by stones. The foreign ministers have sent a collective note to the government asking for the suppression of these outrages and the punishment of the culprits."

Roosevelt Paid Taxes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The tax levied on Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's personal property at No. 674 Madison avenue, this city, was paid at the tax commissioner's office in the Stewart building yesterday. Payment was made by Mr. Douglass Robinson, brother-in-law of Colonel Roosevelt, acting on behalf of the latter. The amount was $1,005.

Henry George Declines.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Henry George has declined the nomination for governor on the ticket placed in the field by the Chicago platform Democrats, and the committee having authority to fill the vacancies nominated Henry M. McDonald, of the county of New York, for the place.

YELLOW FEVER SITUATION.

No Additional Cases Were Reported at Jackson—Many Leaving.

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 4.—The announcement of ten new cases of yellow fever in Jackson, Sunday, fell ominously upon the ears of the remaining citizens. No additional cases have been reported yesterday, but a number are under investigation, and before night the bulletin board undoubtedly will announce them genuine. In several parts of the city yellow flags mark the infected premises, adding to the feeling of uneasiness which to a great extent prevails.

There is no panic, but more of the people are leaving for northern points and soon there will be comparatively few white people here. Several of the state officials have already gone and more will leave, and with one or two exceptions the state house will be deserted.

Nothing Like a Good Example.

China has recently discovered that a postoffice is a good institution and in the course of time may become acquainted with railroads and the trolley. Our example in the Philippines will be apt to keep the old empire interested.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Latest Spanish Puzzle.

Don't forget, please, that the names of the peace commissioners of Spain are Rios, Cerero, Abarzuza, Villarrutia and Jarnica. Perhaps it might be well to chalk them down.—Boston Herald.
